

California Still in Peril From Storms

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A Southern California man was killed today when an avalanche of mud crashed through his luxurious home as ravaging rains continued to sweep floods and disaster across the state.

Target of the storm's main fury was Southern California, where a freight train derailed and burned, towns were a yard deep under water and boulders crashed from hillsides onto passing cars.

At least four other deaths were blamed on the storm, the second to hit the state in one week. Forty-seven deaths, mainly in traffic accidents, were laid to the earlier rain torrents.

Northern California was hard hit by rain but no major flooding or accidents were reported.

Michael Riordan was buried in a sea of mud that broke through a hillside retaining wall and smashed into his home in Brentwood, a Los Angeles suburb, while he was in the bedroom.

Six firemen trying to rescue him were trapped for a time in a second mudslide before they were dug free. Riordan's wife was watching television in another room and was not seriously injured.

Train Derailed

A Southern Pacific freight train traveling at 60 miles an hour derailed Friday night near Santa Barbara on the coast 120 miles northwest of Los Angeles, hurling its flaming cargo of new automobiles and "piggy-back" truck trailers over a quarter-mile area.

Engineer Andrew F. Flory, 60, San Luis Obispo, escaped with only bruises as firemen fought to control the fires touched off by explosions believed in gas tanks of the automobiles.

Two cars were hit by burning debris as they passed on adjacent U.S. 101, closed for several hours, but no injuries were reported.

At the surfing town of Malibu, large boulders from rain-soaked cliffs crashed onto the coast highway, smashing several cars. There were no serious injuries reported.

On the coast near Santa Barbara, many of the 8,000 residents of Carpinteria were evacuated as flood waters rose up to three feet deep in much of the town.

In Los Angeles, James Kaiser, 36, remained in critical condition with burns suffered when his gasoline tanker truck overturned on the rain-slick San Diego Freeway Friday and burst into flames. Another man was seriously burned.

In Industry, 20 miles east of Los Angeles, the search continued for Michael Hetrick, 11, swept into a raging storm drain and presumed drowned. His brother, Robert, 10, was pulled from the channel five miles from where they fell Friday.

A rainwater-swollen private reservoir in Cabazon, 80 miles east of Los Angeles, broke its dike early today. A hastily bolstered check dam held the torrent from sweeping down usually dry San Geronimo Creek where 75 residents had been evacuated.

Fox Cities — Fair and continued very cold tonight and Sunday. Low tonight near minus 10, high Sunday near 5. Wind northwest at 10-16 m.p.h. tonight and Sunday. Precipitation probability 10 per cent tonight and 5 per cent Sunday.

Gigantic Snafu Lands 'Civilian' In Ft. Ord Brig

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—A man who says he isn't a soldier has been held at Ft. Ord, Calif., 35 days in what the Arizona Republic said Friday night appears to be a coast-to-coast mix-up involving the Army, National Guard, Selective Service and FBI.

"I'm a civilian and I don't belong here," the newspaper quoted Michael Mallon, 23, as giving as the reason for his refusal to wear an Army uniform. "I'm going to stick by my guns."

In Phoenix, Mallon's pregnant wife, Deanna, 22, is virtually penniless, about to lose their car and furniture. Her parents and the reason for the couple's being in Phoenix—Mr. and Mrs. Joseph J. Harris—are in the same financial fix.

Mallon was arrested here Dec. 12 by Army Military Police as a deserter, and is being held in "retention" by the Army. The FBI had arrested him the day before, but released him when it decided he had deserted nothing.

The newspaper said it had pieced together this story from Mallon, the family, Selective Service and the Army.

Mallon was a member of Company C, 1st Bn. of the 115th Infantry Regiment, a National Guard unit at Greenbelt, Md., last Feb. 1, when his father-in-law suffered a heart attack at Haverstraw, N. Y. The National Guard said it gave Mallon 60 days to transfer to a guard unit in New York State.

Time Runs Out
During that time, Mallon was in an auto accident, and was in Ranapa General Hospital, Spring Valley, N. Y., when the time ran out. Mallon says an FBI agent told him to report to the local Selective Service board to register for the draft.

At the same time, his Maryland guard unit reported to his draft board at Hyattsville, Md., that he had missed guard meetings and was eligible for the draft.

Mallon says he contacted the draft board at Nyack, N. Y., now located at Springville, N. Y.—told it of his back injury, and was told to report for a medical examination Sept. 11.

Meantime, First Army Headquarters at Ft. Meade, Md., wrote Mallon to report to Ft. Dix, N. J., for active duty Aug. 30.

Medically Unfit
Mallon says he was told by the Nyack board that Selective Service had his case, and he should report for the examination on the day set. He took it, and was reclassified 1Y, medically unfit for service.

Mallon, his wife and her parents moved then to Phoenix because of the father's heart attack.

Mallon received a new 1-Y draft card from his Hyattsville board in November, and thought nothing more about it until the FBI agent knocked on the door in December.

Lt. Col. James Cody of Ft. Ord told the newspaper that as far as the Army is concerned, Mallon is a soldier, but it's beginning a complete medical examination today to see if he's physically fit.

Capt. Charles Herring, Mallon's military lawyer, said he doesn't think Mallon is in the Army because of Selective Service's action.

U.S. Urges Withdrawal Of All Foreign Troops

Hanoi Takes Tough Line in Conference

PARIS (AP) — U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge called today for mutual withdrawal of all foreign troops from South Vietnam and said "we are ready to work toward the implementation of such mutual withdrawal."

Lodge's opening statement at the first session of the substantive four-party peace talks also proposed immediate re-establishment of the demilitarized buffer zone between North and South Vietnam "as a first practical step on the road to peace."

Lodge's statement came shortly after North Vietnam and the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front laid down the toughest of terms in policy statements. They demand an end to the present Saigon government and formation of a "peace cabinet" to participate in this conference.

As the delegates of the United States, Hanoi, the NLF and South Vietnam came face to face around an enormous round table, 26 feet across, in a historic confrontation, Hanoi and the front concentrated on political aspects of a prospective settlement, while the Americans and South Vietnam zeroed in on the military aspects.

Both the NLF and North Vietnam accused the United States of insincerity in approaching the conference, but Lodge replied that "the United States will enter these talks with a profound sense of responsibility and an open mind."

The United States, said President Nixon's envoy, "will put forth carefully considered proposals and hopes that the other side will do the same." He added that "undoubtedly we have many difficult sessions ahead of us," and then made his first proposal.

"A good way to begin our task," Lodge said, "would be to deal with concrete proposals. The search for peace can begin in the DMZ. We believe that the demilitarized status of the zone between North and South Vietnam should be restored immediately. Specifically, the U.S. government proposes that the DMZ should be:

"Free of all regular and irregular military and subversive forces and personnel, military installations, military supplies and equipment.

"An area in which, from which and across which all acts of force are prohibited.

"A zone temporarily separating North and South Vietnam, pending their reunification through the free expression of the will of the people of the North and of the people of the South.

"An area the same in size and definition as that provided in the 1954 Geneva accords.

"Subject to an effective system of international inspection and verification.

"We therefore propose that each side publicly declare its readiness to respect the provisions of the 1954 Geneva accords relating to the DMZ and abide by these provisions."

Repeat Charges
Lodge's statement contained the first real concrete proposal of the day. He is believed hopeful it will spur concrete proposals.

Cubans Interrogate 'Hijacked' Sailors

MIAMI (AP) — Uniformed servicemen hijacked to Cuba by a Navy deserter said today their Communist interrogators badgered them.

Sixteen servicemen, most of them sailors assigned to the sprawling Key West Navy base, were among 40 passengers hijacked Friday on the National Airlines flight from Key West to Miami.

Yeoman 2.C. Johnny Coulter, 24, Vietnam veteran from Riverview, Ala., said one interrogator "started clapping his hands at me saying, 'You're a brave man! You're a brave man!' when I wouldn't answer questions."

"I just told them my name, rank and serial number," Coulter said.

'Just Harassment'
David Jones, 24, Navy jet mechanic from Dallas, Tex., said the interrogators alternated between hospitality and derision. "They came in with cigarettes, coffee and Cuban sandwiches," Jones said. "It was just harassment and propaganda to get our hair down—the food and coffee and all. But it doesn't work like that with the military. It might work with civilians."

Jones said the Cubans told him, "We could throw you in the brig for this," saying he had entered the country illegally.

"I told them it wasn't by choice," he said.

Coulter said an interrogator asked why he didn't jump the hijacker. "I think about women and children," Coulter said he told the interrogator. "There was a woman with a child right close and she could have gotten hurt."

Actually, the sailor said they never saw the young hijacker stick a knife against stewardess Kim Tatum's neck four minutes out of Key West. They said their first knowledge of the hijacking was when the pilot announced it over the intercom.

Another stewardess, Sue Morrill, 22, said the "fidgety" hijacker told her: "I don't want to kill. I don't want to go to Vietnam."

Capt. Thomas L. Dwyer, chief of staff for intelligence for the commander of U.S. Naval forces in Japan when the Pueblo was seized a year ago, followed Bucher to the stand.

All of Dwyer's and most of Bucher's testimony Friday was described as classified information by the Navy. Bucher had spent the previous four days in frequently anguished testimony in public. He was released from further appearances, subject to recall.

Senate Hearings

In Washington, Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield of Montana and Sen. Peter H. Dominick R-Colo., talked of committee hearings into all aspects of the Pueblo capture.

Dominick asserted that the Navy was trying to blame Bucher rather than the officials who denied him the means to destroy the ship's secret equipment. He said he felt the Armed Services Committee, of which he is a member should have a hearing.

Mansfield said he thinks the Foreign Relations Committee, of which he is a member, and the Armed Services Committee will want to inquire into all aspects of the seizure.

Capt. Vincent Thomas, information officer for the commander of the Pacific Fleet, gave newsmen a briefing of Friday's testimony.

Crewmen's Attempts to Communicate Led to Severe Beatings by N. Koreans

CORONADO, Calif. (AP) — Cmdr. Lloyd Bucher says Pueblo crewmen made hundreds of attempts to let the folks back home know that the spying confessions were phony—but most were intercepted by their North Korean captors and followed by severe beatings.

This testimony by the intelligence ship's skipper was reported by a Navy spokesman who briefed newsmen on Bucher's five hours of closed-door testimony.

Italians Ponder Ties With Hanoi

ROME (AP) — The Italian government announced Friday it would recognize Red China, and the Socialist Party today was reported pressing for similar recognition of North Vietnam.

Earlier this month the directorate of the Socialist Party, a member of Italy's center-left coalition government, unanimously approved a document urging establishment of diplomatic relations with Hanoi.

Socialist Vice Premier Francesco de Martino has been urging Premier Mariano Rumor to accept this recommendation, sources said. But so far there has been no public indication Rumor and his Christian Democratic Party are willing to agree to this.

gave newsmen a briefing of Friday's testimony.

The unclassified material, he said, included Bucher's testimony that the North Koreans discovered "hundreds of signals sent home by the crew to tell the United States their spying confessions were phony."

He mentioned a now-famous photo, widely distributed by North Korea and supposedly showing contented prisoners, who actually were giving a well-known signal of contempt.

Severe Beatings

"Cmdr. Bucher observed that after publication in the U.S. of the photo which showed crewmen making the internationally recognized gesture' the North Koreans reviewed all their propaganda films, letters, etc., and discovered hundreds of similar signals," said Thomas.

It was at this juncture that the entire crew received severe beatings.

Bucher, who wept and broke down as he told an open session Thursday of death threats to himself and his crew before he confessed to spying, was serious and solemn as he entered the closed session.

When he came out during a recess, he said he was "much more relaxed" and that the session "went well."

Homes Shattered By Gas Explosion In Southern Town

LAUREL, Miss. (AP) — Eighteen tank cars loaded with butane gas exploded with a series of tremendous blasts early today, sending balls of fire and debris through a several-block area. At least eight persons were hospitalized and 35 homes were reported destroyed.

One tank car was blown two blocks by the force of the explosions, set off when one of the tankers derailed about 10 blocks from the downtown area.

Police feared another eight tank cars, part of the same shipment, might be touched off by the flames. Each held 30,000 gallons of gas.

Residents in Jackson, 90 miles to the north, said they could see the night sky light up when the cars erupted about 4:30 a.m. Windows were blown out in a four-mile radius around the site of the blasts. Telephone service was disrupted in a wide area.

'International Conspiracy'

Franco's Spain Under Martial Law for 3 Months

MADRID (AP) — The government of Gen. Francisco Franco declared a three-month state of emergency Friday night and muzzled the Spanish press to thwart what it claimed was an "international conspiracy to destroy the peace."

The government decree gives police the right to search without warrant, hold prisoners indefinitely without charge, exile Spaniards from their home regions, prevent free speech and prohibit public assemblies.

Government censorship, which was officially abolished in 1966, was clamped on all Spanish newspapers and magazines starting today.

There was no immediate public reaction in the first few hours. There were no reports of mass arrests. But a nationwide crackdown is expected on political opponents, dissident student and labor leaders and Basque separatists.

The action by Franco's government followed a wave of student demonstrations. The universities of Madrid and Barcelona have been closed and 68,000 students have been barred from classes.

Manuel Fraga Iribarne, Spain's information minister, warned the nation that "from this moment the full weight of the law will fall on inciters of unrest and their followers."

"We are going to fulfill our duty to defend the fatherland and the progress of Spain," said Fraga.

Fraga said rebel students have been misled by "a strategy aimed at producing an orgy of nihilism, anarchism and disobedience."

Omro '5' Triumphs Over Winneconne to Retain League Lead

Rated fifth among Wisconsin's small schools, Omro's Foxes rolled to their 12th win in 13 games and their eight straight Little Nine triumph to highlight action in the conference Friday night. The Foxes whipped Winneconne, 62-43.

Reedsville topped Brillion, 75-58; Denmark won its first conference game by stopping Freedom, 65-52; and Hortonville dumped Shiocton 76-65. Hilbert was to play Wrightstown, but the game was called due to inclement weather.

Randy Wade and Steve Hoeft paced Omro. Wade tallied 24 points and hauled down 18 rebounds to lead the Foxes. Hoeft added 22 points and pulled down 15 rebounds.

The Foxes jumped off to a 15-4 lead after the first quarter and were never threatened. They held a 29-14 halftime advantage.

Russ Flanigan led Winneconne, now 6-2 in the conference, with 22 markers. The Wolves fell from the co-runner-up spot in the conference with the loss.

Takes Over Second

Reedsville put four players into double figures as it whipped Brillion, 75-58, to take sole possession of second place.

The Panthers trailed, 14-13, after the initial period of play but rallied for a slim 31-30 halftime lead. They outscored the Lions 44-28 in the second half to coast to the win.

Jay Barnard led the winners, (now 7-1) with 27 points. Steve Zirbel added 20, followed by Wayne Nohr with 14. Russ Hansen led Brillion with 28 points. The Lions are now tied for fourth with a 5-3 mark.

Wisconsin colleges were virtual spectators Friday night as two members of the Midwest Conference battled it out for the first of the basketball lead.

St. Olaf College pulled away in the final minutes for a 71-66 victory and replaced Coe in first place. The Oles are 7-1, and second-place Coe is 5-1.

In other Midwest Conference games, Carleton whipped Beloit 66-51, Knox downed Lawrence 66-63, and Monmouth overran Ripon 81-65. All were road games for the Wisconsin schools.

Illinois Wesleyan defeated Carroll 83-78 in a College Conference of Illinois-Wisconsin game, although the losers' Russ Ullsperger led all scorers with 24 points. Carroll is now 2-4 in the CCIW.

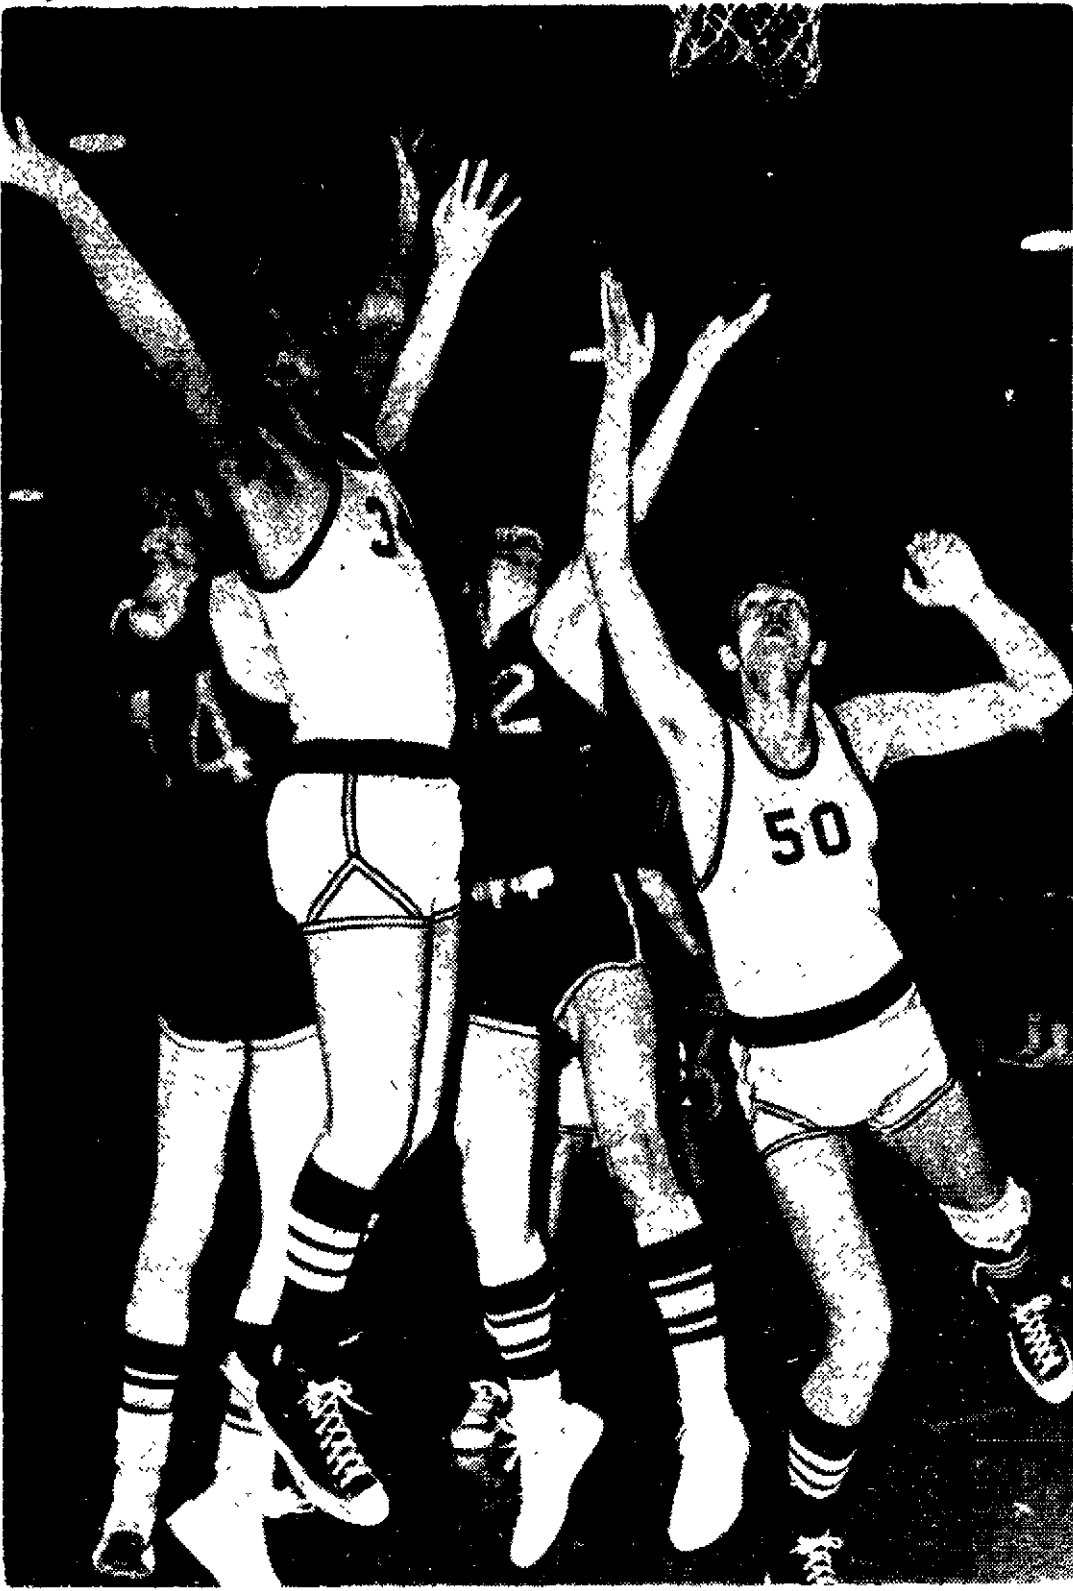

Carleton's victory gave it a 6-2 league record while Beloit fell to a 3-3 position. Beloit's best output was by Tom Wilson with 13 points.

Monmouth led Ripon by four points at halftime. High for the game was Ripon's Greg Nickoli with 19 points.

St. Norbert defeated St. Ambrose of Iowa 96-94 in overtime in a Midlands Conference game.

Top-Rated Beloit Wins North Stops Riverside Quint, 77 to 74

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Milwaukee North's Blue Devils "held those Tigers" Friday night, handing previously unbeaten and fifth-ranked Milwaukee Riverside High School its first basketball defeat, 77-74, in overtime.

The Tigers, a member of The Associated Press "big ten," fell behind 75-72 with 15 seconds left in the extra period, scored a basket to narrow the margin to one point, and then saw North's Fred Brock tip-in a missed free throw attempt to ice the game for the Blue Devils.

The loss drops Riverside's record to 11-1 and puts the Tigers in third place in the rugged City Conference behind North and Marshall.

Marshall (13-0), the No. 10 team in The AP "big ten," stayed on top of the loop with an easy 81-63 victory over Milwaukee South.

Waunakee also played giant-killer Friday night, handing the eight-ranked "little ten" school, McFarland, its second loss of the campaign, 65-60.

The Warriors led all the way in dropping McFarland's season mark to 10-2.

Beloit Rallies

Beloit (13-0) roared back in the second half to protect its No. 1 rating and dropped Janesville Craig 73-68.

Lamont Weaver led the second half charge, finishing with 25 points, as the Knights made up a fourth-point half time deficit with some points to spare.

Other AP "big ten" action: Kimberly (13-0) downed Shawano 89-43, Racine St. Catherine (15-0) toppled Milwaukee Notre Dame 80-37 and Appleton Xavier (15-0) defeated Green Bay Premonstr 75-55.

Sixth-rated Eau Claire Memorial (11-1) found the going tough without injured starters Greg Morley and Gregg Bohlig, so the pair was called into action anyway.

Morley came off the bench first, early in the first half, and led the Abes all the way to the finish, when he dropped in two free throws with seven seconds left to provide the winning points.

Alcindor Hits 35 No. 1 Uclans Rally for Win Over Wildcats

CHICAGO (AP) — Top-ranked UCLA still is unbeaten with a 13-0 record, but Coach Johnny Wooden will be glad to get his basketball Bruins out of the bruising Midlands after they meet Chicago Loyola tonight.

The Uclans needed a super effort by super star Lew Alcindor to overcome brawny Northwestern 81-67, after trailing 45-35 at halftime, in the Chicago Stadium Friday night.

In the opener of the double-header, Marquette captured its 11th straight triumph and padded its record to 13-2 by wearing down Loyola 61-56.

Wooden, who woke up his Bruins with a sharp halftime lecture, got an idea of what it might be like next year without Alcindor, who pumped in 35 points and finally cooled off Northwestern.

"At halftime, I told our team I was ashamed of our work on the defensive boards," said Wooden, adding, "These Midwest teams play a strong physical game — there's a lot of bodily contact."

Northwestern outmuscled UCLA on rebounds 64-48, and the Big Ten Wildcats might have broken UCLA's 28-game victory skein if they hadn't gone icy cold in shooting with a .289 percentage.

The Bruins, on the other hand, shot .456 from the field and got back in the game in the second half when Lynn Shackelford and John Vallely gave Alcindor much-needed scoring support.

Wooden said Alcindor played well on offense, but said he was unhappy the way the husky Wildcats blocked out Lew on the defensive boards.

Ohio State was the only other team in the Top Twenty to play. The Buckeyes, ranked 12th, whipped Cornell 96-78 as Dave Sorenson scored 33 points and grabbed 17 rebounds.

They had to overcome a 15-point deficit in the first half before pulling away to their fifth straight victory for an 11-2 record.

Zephyrs in 59-48 Loss At Roncalli

MANITOWOC — A third-quarter drought on the part of Menasha St. Mary kept Manitowoc Roncalli in sole possession of second place in the Valley Catholic Conference, as the Jets flew over the Zephyrs, 59-48, in a Friday night game.

The Jets jumped off to an 8-0 lead, but the Zephyrs crept up for the rest of the initial period and overtook Roncalli, 15-14, early in the second.

The Jets came back, however, and managed a 3-point advantage at half-time. The Zephyrs mustered only five points in the third stanza as Roncalli took a 38-29 lead going into the final quarter.

Guard Bob Dufek of Roncalli took scoring honors on five field goals and five free throws for a total of 15 points. Guard Tom Dodge had 12 and Mike Dowd and Greg Kostecha had 11 each for the Jets. Forward Dave Lotzer paced the Zephyrs with 13 tallies.

The Jets out-rebounded their opponents, 33-20, and forced the Zephyrs into 19-turn-overs while committing eight themselves.

Northwestern 68-55 Victor Cold-Shooting Foxes Lose

BY RON WITT
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Miserable shooting from the floor added to countless lapses on defense spelled doom for the Fox Valley Lutheran Foxes Friday night, as they dropped a 68-55 Midwest Prep Conference contest at home to Watertown Northwestern.

The Foxes, now 3-6 in league play and 4-10 overall bombed away at an icy 22.4 clip on 21 fast break for a number of easy baskets in 89 tries. In stark contrast, the Hornets (3-5) needed just 44 attempts to make 23 buckets and a 52.2 percent. Northwestern hit 60 per cent in rolling up a 33-19 halftime lead.

Leading the way for the winners was Steve Ehlike, a 5-10 guard who connected for 19 points. He was the biggest thorn in the Foxes' side the entire game, as he broke free on 21 fast break for a number of easy goals.

Roger Kuethr and Don Sutton each contributed 12 points to the Hornets' cause, and Tom Biedenbender added 10. A fifth starter, Larry Zahn, just missed double figures with nine points.

Kuethr, who paced Northwestern rebounding, fouled out with 3:27 remaining.

Beck Goldbeck rolled in 15 points to top the Foxes, and John Mattek chipped in with 11. Jim Petermann was the next in line with nine.

Thompson Hits 20 Marquette Tips Ramblers, 61-56

CHICAGO (AP) — Marquette University spurned the Chicago Stadium bugaboo Friday night, and coach Al McGuire's Windy City skein is beginning to sound like a promising bellwether.

The Warriors, No. 16, in The Associated Press poll, downed Loyola of Chicago, 61-56. It was Marquette's 11th consecutive victory and the first over Loyola in the Stadium since the 1959-60 campaign.

Marquette had lost eight consecutive games to the Ramblers in the Stadium, and trailed by one point at halftime before overcoming Loyola for a 13-2 record.

Midway in the second half, Loyola trailed 55-47, its worst deficit.

Then it whittled the Warriors' advantage to 58-56 with less than a minute to go.

But Marquette's Joe Thomas scored a pair of free throws on a one-and-one situation to ice the game.

George Thompson was high for Marquette with 20 points.

Northwestern, which lost a 56-55 squeaker to FVL at Watertown earlier in the season, came out with a vengeance as it roared first to a 5-0 edge and then stretched it to 9-1 in the first three minutes.

Go to Press

A full-court zone press helped the Foxes get in the ballgame in the next moments. Goldbeck's rebound goal made it 9-8 with 3:46 left, but the Hornets then hurried themselves to take a 15-10 edge at the buzzer.

When the invaders began to riddle the Foxes' press with some long looping passes, FVL switched to a 1-2-2 zone. That move didn't help much either, as Northwestern then got hot from the outside. In the second period the Hornets swished eight of 12 floor attempts.

Foxes' fans whooped it up at the start of the second half, when Bootz and Petermann each connected to cut the Hornets' deficit to 33-23. However, that margin of 10 points was the closest FVL would range the rest of the game.

Zahn's two gift shots with 4:28 left in the game gave the visitors their biggest spread at 58-42. Goldbeck's 3-point play with 35 seconds left made it 64-54, but the issue had long been decided.

Childs Lost Early Viking Comeback Falls Short in 66-63 Loss

GALESBURG, Ill. — The back to within three points of Lawrence basketball Vikings Knox at the final whistle.

The Siwashers' captain, senior guard Bill Fuerst, hit 12 of 28 field goal attempts and went eight for eight from the line for a total of 32 points. Fuerst's bowled to Knox 66-63 in a Midwest Conference game played Friday night.

Knox got off to an early lead and maintained a slight edge throughout the initial half to come off the court with a 31-26 advantage. Lawrence's leading scorer, forward Bob Townsend, on nine field goals and two free throws, while Townsend popped in 18 markers.

Knox controlled the boards as they out-bounded the Vikes 37-29. Fuerst again led the Siwashers in this department with 11. Andrews also grabbed 11 snags, the highest of any Lawrence player, followed by Childs with eight.

Knox hit 59 of 24 shots from the floor for 41 per cent, while Lawrence hit 37 per cent, making 27 of 71 field goal attempts. The Siwash went 18 for 23 from the line for 78 per cent and the Vikes went nine for 12 or 75 per cent.

Lawrence now has a 3-6 conference record and is 4-7 overall.

Third Period Decisive Dutchmen Lose to Squires, 59-47

BY TOM VANDER PAS

LITTLE CHUTE — A nine-point rally at the outset of the third period enabled De Pere Abbott Pennings to break away from a 25-23 halftime lead and go on to hand St. John its worst defeat of the Valley Catholic Conference season here Friday night, 59-47.

After a see-saw opening stanza which the Squires got the better of by a 16-13 margin, the Dutchmen's only lead came on a Stu Hietpas field goal with 1:06 left before intermission, boosting the hosts into a 23-21 advantage.

Steve Kolb's long set shot pulled Pennings up even, before Pete Van Dyke caromed home the tie-breaker with :02 showing.

triumph in 11 league games, the winners were paced in scoring by Kolb and Albers with 17 and 16 markers, respectively.

St. John was topped by Vande Hey with 16 points, followed by Hietpas with an even dozen.

The losers, now 5-5 in loop play, shot a dismal 29 per cent from the floor, netting 17 of 58 tries, while Pennings covered 23 of 63 attempts for a 37 per cent accuracy mark.

The Dutchmen return to action Sunday evening on their home court against Green Bay Premontre.

Menominee Tax Base Likely To Double Within Five Years

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — With recreational developments and associated economic activity now known, the tax base of Menominee County will more than double during the next five years and its full value tax rate for all local governmental purposes will be substantially lower than that which prevails statewide today, the state Menominee Indian study committee has been told.

Harry Harder, deputy head of the state tax administration, provided the committee which is preparing a report to the Legislature on the new county which was formerly an Indian reservation, with projections which he repeatedly said were "conservative."

He did not take into account any new industrial development in the county, or any increase in the valuation of the huge forest holdings of Menominee Enterprises, or such tourist-related developments as have been recommended by the Northeastern Wisconsin Regional Planning commission, he emphasized.

The principal value gain within the county, counted by Harder, was the Lake of the Menominees real estate development now underway, which he said, calculated will add about $19 million to the local tax base for without charge to those parents an equalized valuation of more than $40 million in 1974, against $19 million today.

The result will be that the full value tax rate in the county five years hence will be about $28.83, or probably at a level substantially under that of the rest of the state at that time, in spite of the fact that transitional federal aids to the new county of the probably will have been cut off by that time.

The average statewide full value tax rate in Wisconsin is now about $28.00.

Meanwhile, the committee heard a series of reports, including one from the county welfare department indicating that a low per capita income of the residents of the county continues as the most serious problem there. The document showed that about 50 per cent of the county's population, as measured by the 1960 census, is receiving public assistance of some kind.

Low Income

The per capita income, said G. H. Sauer, is about $881, or about one third the state average, and by a considerable degree the lowest of any county in the state.

Sauer said that employment for men is fairly adequate but that the county needs industry that would provide employment to a large number of available women workers.

He also asserted that family planning information and services made available to all parents in the county who want to avail themselves of such help would be of significant aid in reducing the public assistance burden now underway, which he said, calculated will add about $19 million to the local tax base for without charge to those parents an equalized valuation of more than $40 million in 1974, against $19 million today.

The result will be that the full value tax rate in the county five years hence will be about $28.83, or probably at a level substantially under that of the rest of the state at that time, in spite of the fact that transitional federal aids to the new county of the probably will have been cut off by that time.

The projected visitor destination center in the county, for which a federal grant of more than $800,000 has already been approved, will generate employment directly and in related services to provide nearly 300 jobs, the committee was told in a study report of the Northeastern Wisconsin Planning commission.

The committee also heard familiar complaints from dissatisfied Menominee County residents who opposed the abolition of their reservation status. Mrs. Constance Deere, a tireless opponent of the new county during the 10 years since the federal termination act, returned to the capitol to claim that the Menominees are a "treaty-protected nation," and that the state is acting fraudulently in regarding the area as a county. She was accompanied by Mrs. Sanford Fowler who also said she believes such activities as the leasing of Menominee lands to outsiders is illegal.

Concordia Director Plans Visit

Lutheran College Official to Speak at Faith, Peace Churches

A representative from Concordia College, Milwaukee, will fill two speaking engagements in the Fox Cities Sunday.

Will Face Trial on Weapon Charge

An April 24 trial date was set Friday for Roy Garvin, 21, 636½ London St., Menasha, who is charged with carrying a concealed weapon and disorderly conduct.

Outagamie County authorities charged Garvin following a disturbance at the Some Place Else Bar, 3240 E. Wisconsin Ave., last May. Appleton police, when they stopped Garvin's car at W. College Avenue and N. Richmond Street, found a loaded, .22 caliber pistol under a blanket on the front seat.

The case has been delayed several times, after Garvin's court-appointed attorney petitioned the court to suppress evidence taken from Garvin's car in connection with the concealed weapon arrest.

Schaefer denied the motion and innocent pleas were entered to both charges Friday. The attorney contended the pistol was seized through an illegal search of the Garvin auto.

Mayor Questions Cost Placed on FVTI

Is $5 Million Total Price or Portion District Will Pay?

Will the proposed new area vocational and technical training school cost $5 or $10 million?
Mayor George Buckley said Friday he has written the District 12 Vocational, Technical, and Adult Education Board for a clarification.

In a letter to William Sirek, District director, the mayor said he noted in a newspaper account earlier in the week that the new school, the Fox Valley Technical Institute, to be built in the Town of Grand Chute would cost approximately $5 million.

Received Calls
However, Buckley said he received a few telephone calls on the matter from "concerned taxpayers" who inquired if the cost estimate included funds to be allocated the major construction project.

Buckley asked Sirek to advise him if the $5 million figure being used by district officials is "inclusive or exclusive of all governmental monetary aids."

Buckley has been a watchdog on the budget and building procedures of the board and has engaged in scraps with that group in the past, threatening to put the building project to a bond issue referendum if it was not bonded over a long-term period.

In previous meetings with municipal officials from throughout the district, estimates of the cost of the school ranged from $9 to $11 million. At the time these figures were mentioned, it was emphasized that half would represent federal funding.

Buckley said today if the proposed new school has now been scaled down price-wise to $5 million, he assumed that only half would have to be bonded for by the district because the other 50 per cent of the money would come from the federal government.

"I think this is something which should be clarified immediately and that is why I wrote Sirek," Buckley said.

At the same time, the mayor had another objection to the Church Plans to Install Officers At Wittenberg

WITTENBERG—Newly elected officers of St. Paul Lutheran Church will be installed Sunday during early church services. Officers were elected and a $34,570 church budget approved Monday at the annual church meeting.

Members also favored a proposed Altar and Pulpit Fellowship with the American Lutheran Church.

Officers are Erich Klaus, president; Harold Kussow, vice president; and Wilmarth Thayer, secretary.

Larry Sickler and Loren Walter were elected to the board of elders; Walter Hegewald, board of evangelism; Harold Aannonen, board of education; and Al Siebert, board of trustees; Lyman Laude and Art Schoepke, board of finance; George Hanke, board of stewardship; Bob Hoekstra, cemetery board; and Art Schwartzkopf, nominating committee.

Eight Injured in 6-Vehicle Crash

At least eight persons were injured, several of them believed seriously, in a chain reaction accident involving a snow plow, a pickup truck and four cars on State 55, a quarter mile north of U. S. 41, late this morning.

Names of the accident victims and the nature of their injuries were not immediately available. The accident occurred during blizzard like conditions.

Voting Procedures Given For Kaukauna Referendum

KAUKAUNA — Regular voting procedure will be followed and voting machines will be used for the special referendum election to be held Tuesday on the proposed $1.5 million school bond issue, according to Karl E. Marzahl, city clerk.

Voting hours will be from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. with First and Second ward voters casting ballots at Park School and Third, Fourth and Fifth Ward voters voting at Nicolet School. Voters in Little Chute will also use voting machines while outlying areas of the district will mark paper ballots.

A "yes" vote will authorize the board of education to float a $1.5 million bond issue to finance construction of a new board and Sirek after receiving a letter from the latter stating the vocational and technical board would not assume liability if certain equipment sold at auction did not take in $5,125.

Buckley said Sirek recently appeared before the board of public works and after considerable discussion a compromise was worked out to the effect the board would assume the liability.

Real Estate Broker Dies Unexpectedly

W. J. Konrad, Jr., 88, Was Active in Many Civic, Church Groups

William J. Konrad Jr., a well-known Appleton real estate broker, died unexpectedly Friday.

Services for the 88-year-old owner of the Konrad Insurance Agency will be at 11 a.m. Monday at St. Joseph Catholic Church.

Friends may call at the Bretschneider-Tretlin Funeral Home after 3 p.m. Sunday until the time of service.

Konrad, a native of Appleton established his business in 1928. Before that he worked for the Appleton Chair Company and the Citizens National Bank.

In 1922 he was elected secretary of the National Farm Loan Association and served in that position for 14 years until the offices were moved to Waupaca. He was one of the organizers of the Peoples Loan and Finance Company and served as president for many years.

He had been a director and vice president of the Outagamie County Historical Society, a member of the Elks Club, the Catholic Order of Foresters and a fourth degree Knight of Columbus.

Konrad belonged to the Holy Name Society of St. Joseph's Church, where he was an usher for 40 years, and was a charter member of Butte Des Morts Country Club. He was active in the Philatelic Society and Outagamie Pioneers.

Surviving him are two daughters, Mrs. Richard Garvey and Mrs. Robert Lally, both of Appleton, and nine grandchildren. Burial will be in the St. Joseph Cemetery.

Eight Injured in 6-Vehicle Crash

Outagamie County and state police said that a county grader-snow plow was southbound on State 55 when it was rammed from behind by a car. A second car struck the first vehicle and the pickup truck and too more cars then were involved in the accident. All of the vehicles were south bound.

The injured were taken to the Kaukauna hospital by three ambulances.

Capping Ceremonies were held Thursday for 12 Red Cross volunteers who are working part time in Banta and Gegan elementary schools. Marion, 'Wega Also Win

Waupaca Triumphs, 67-50

Team standings in the central Wisconsin Conference remained unchanged after three games Friday night.

Still undefeated in conference play, Waupaca (8-0) trimmed Wittenberg, 63-50, to retain its 2-game lead.

Marion (6-2) dropped Amherst 64-50 to remain Waupaca's nearest challenger. Third place Weyauwega (5-3) trounced Manawa, 67-50. In non-conference play, Iola-Scandinavia romped over Wautoma, 80-52.

Wittenberg was unable to overcome a 16-9 first quarter deficit and eventually had to yield to Waupaca's highly effective man-to-man defense. The Wildcats managed to score just five points in the final period. Waupaca's Mick Sannes led the game's scorers with 17 points.

Both teams shot 57 per cent from the charity line; Waupaca hitting on 13 of 23 attempts, and Wittenberg on 8 of 14. Wittenberg's leading point-maker, Nick Strong, collected six of his 16 points on free throws.

Scores 31 Points
Marion's John Braun racked up a total of 31 points against Amherst. Braun's achievement becomes even more remarkable in light of the fact that he went scoreless for the entire second quarter.

Amherst never led in the game. Ray Swetalla was the "Falcons" leading scorer. He pumped in a total of 19 points.

Amherst shot a weak 29 per

National Figure Will Speak at Murray Meetings

WAUSAU—An outstanding and internationally known American will speak at the Hyde Murray for Congress luncheon scheduled Feb. 22 at Wisconsin Rapids and the dinner planned here the same evening.

David Thompson, committee chairman for Murray, will be in charge of the dinner here and William Tanner, former Wood County and 7th District Young Republican chairman, will be in charge of the Wisconsin Rapids luncheon.

Thompson said funds raised at the two affairs would be used to elect Murray to the 7th District Congressional seat made vacant by Rep. Melvin Laird's appointment as Secretary of Defense.

Times, locations and the identity of the speaker will be announced later, according to Thompson.

Murray lives in Ogdensburg. He is a graduate of Manawa High School and the college of agriculture of the University of Wisconsin. He received his law degree from Georgetown University, Georgetown, Ky. He is the son of the late 7th District Congressman Reid F. Murray. The 38-year-old attorney is married and has two children.

Mrs. Mamie Nelson and Mrs. Grover Meisner were selected to arrange for programs during the year.

Ex-Chairman Enters Race

Lecker to Challenge
Ira Livingston for Grand Chute Post

Arthur Lecker, 2927 N. Oneida St., former Grand Chute town chairman and supervisor, is challenging Ira Livingston Jr. for the town's top post in the spring election.

Lecker served as town chairman from 1953 to 1955 when he was defeated by present town chairman, Tom Thorson. He was town supervisor from 1943 to 1953.

Thorson announced late last month he was not seeking reelection. Livingston, who is a town board supervisor, is running for the chairman's post the first time.

Lecker took out nomination papers Thursday. Livingston previously filed his papers with Les Woldt, town clerk.

Woldt also announced that seven persons have taken out papers for supervisory positions, including incumbent Ed Zielger. Others who have filed include James Gasper and Donald J. Mattison.

Taking out papers this week were Bernard Tillman, who previously served as supervisor for 10 years and for the past three years represented the town on the county board; Thomas Foxgrover, who two years ago made an unsuccessful bid for supervisor; Keith Schoenrock, and Bert Wevenberg.

John Arft, incumbent constable, is being opposed by David Neubert Woldt, Assessor John R. Stevens and Treasurer Eugene Peltzer are unopposed to date. The deadline for filing papers is 5 p.m. on Jan. 28.

Pulaski Tips Seymour '5' In Overtime

Indians Post 27-13
Basket Edge, Lose
On Free Tosses

SEYMOUR — Pulaski clinched a close game by taking a 69-63 decision from Seymour in an overtime Friday night.

Free throws played a large part in the duel as the winners ran up a total of 43 points on foul shots. Seymour had a 27-13 field goal edge.

Pulaski held the upper hand at the half, 32-26. The Indians, however, crept back into the game by narrowing Pulaski's margin by one point in the third quarter and by the remaining five during the final period. This left the teams deadlocked at 59-59, when the gun sounded.

Ed King was mainly responsible for Seymour's second half effort. King's 11 points in the fourth quarter along with Seymour's press erased the Pulaski lead and forced the contest into the extra period.

Overtime action saw the Red Outagamie County Court Raiders outpoint Seymour, 10 to Branch 1, all on grounds of 4. Separate Proposal for Liberal Birth Control Provisions Presented State Legislative Council Has Backed Conservative Bill

MADISON — One day after a proposed birth control bill went under massive revisions under pressure from Catholic women's groups, the head of a state study committee introduced the original sweeping revision of Wisconsin birth control laws into the State Senate.

Sen. Holger Rasmussen, R-Spooner, Tuesday brought into the Senate the same provisions deleted from an interim study committee's birth control proposals by the state Legislative Council.

Rasmussen coupled the introductions to rare criticism of the Council's new chairman, Sen. Walter Hollander, R-Rosendale, and a biting attack on the Catholic doctor who engineered the changes by the Council.

Rasmussen was chairman of the interim committee which worked for a year on the proposed revisions of the birth control laws.

Strong Opponent

Dr. John Brennan of Milwaukee, an obstetrician who was a member of the committee, the strongest opponent on the study unit of the final recommendation, and author of the substitute amendment accepted by the Council — to which the study committee reported — was blistered by Rasmussen.

Brennan, charged Rasmussen, did not fully inform the council, as to the full impact of his substitute. The council voted to accept Brennan's proposal without bothering to find out what it contained, said Rasmussen.

Gaveled Down

And Hollander "rudely" gaveled down Rasmussen when the study committee chairman attempted to explain Brennan's proposal, the Spooner Republican charged on the Senate floor.

Brennan's bill, said Rasmussen, would not only restrict the distribution of contraceptives to married couples, as the state law now provides, but it would also prevent clergymen from counseling couples planning to be married on birth control, and would strictly prohibit welfare workers from aiding young unwed mothers to prevent further illegitimate children.

The existing law is interpreted by many public welfare agencies in that fashion, but does not clearly read that way.

No Age Limit

Rasmussen's bill echoes the study committee's recommendations and provides contraceptives should be available to both married and unmarried alike. It does not provide for an age restriction.

It continues existing restrictions on places of distribution for the products and on in-state advertising.

Both of the contested bills remove the birth control products from the statutory definition of "indecent articles" which covers abortive agents.

The existing state law is considered to be one of the two most restrictive state regulations on birth control products and practices in the nation.

Mayor Objects To Franchise Without Bids

Park Commission Wants to Retain Concession at Reid

The legality of the Appleton Park-Recreation Commission not taking bids for the concession franchise at Reid Municipal Golf course for the 1969 season was questioned this week by Mayor George Buckley.

Buckley raised objection when Wendall H. Smith, the commission's acting chairman, said he was opposed to getting bids and felt the concession should be retained by Karras Enterprises.

Last year the commission took bids and awarded the contract to Karras.

Much Equipment

Smith claimed that when the contract award was made it included a verbal understanding that the commission, if satisfied, would automatically renew the agreement with Karras Enterprises again this year.

"It would be ridiculous to take bids after they (Karras) put in all that equipment," Smith remarked.

Ald. Orville Strutz (17th), a commission member, said he agreed. He said the commission and people who used the clubhouse facilities were "well satisfied" with the concession operation last year.

However, Ald. Ralph Gertsch (19th), another commission member, noted that the city has rules governing bidding. He said just recently the board of public works ordered bids be taken on some insurance after it was discovered the policy had been automatically renewed for several years.

Buckley did not question the performance of the concession operator last year but did insist it is a legal obligation to advertise for bids.

Not New

Smith countered that the commission is not initiating a new service. He said it is merely a matter of continuing the existing contract because the commission is satisfied.

"I want to be recorded as not voting," Buckley said.

Actually, his votes were not being recorded because earlier Smith raised a ruckus by ruling that the mayor is not an ex officio member of the commission and could not vote.

their mothers wouldn't even notice.

A 14-year old shouldn't mind telling her mother the name of the boy who called, his age and where he lives. The other information, such as what his father does, his religion, etc., is not, as they say in legal circles, germane.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Please print this for the girl who cried her eyes out in print, feeling sorry for herself and all the other "plain" girls who stand around at dances. It seems nobody asks them to dance, so they just stand there talking to each other while the cute, well-stacked chicks get rushed off their feet.

Tell the babes that if they continue to travel in packs and stand together like a herd of sheep nobody will ever ask them for a dance, or for anything else.

AFS Program To be Aired At Meeting

A meeting to acquaint interested Appleton families with the foreign exchange program of the American Field Service (AFS), has been scheduled for 2:30 p.m. Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Manlove, 1422 Oakcrest Drive.

The students generally arrive in the country in August and spend the school year living with a U.S. family and attending the local high school.

This program is now in its 14th year in Appleton and this year has four exchange students attending the two public high schools.

Sunday's meeting is for parents with students at either East or West high schools who are interested in becoming a host family. Those unable to attend may obtain further information by calling either Mrs. Henry Starck or Mrs. Manlove.

Extending Workmen's Protection

It may appear strange to many persons who have heard the boast for so long that this state was one of the pioneers in enacting a system of compensation for employes injured in their course of employment that only this month a truly comprehensive system of workmen's compensation has been put into effect.

An announcement of the State Department of Industry reminds us that the 1967 legislature has eliminated the exemption of employers of three or less persons from the terms of the act. Henceforth, anyone who pays out in wages $500 or more during a quarter must make provision, through self-insurance or the purchase of liability insurance, for the indemnity of employes who may contract illness or suffer injury as a consequence of their employment. The sole remaining exemption under the law, and there will be doubts about its reasonableness, is for farm proprietors and their farm laborers. We can only assume that the legislature was reluctant to impose such costs upon its numerous farm constituents, especially in a time of difficult economic conditions for the man on the farm. Yet the purpose of this act, which was hailed as a classical example of Wisconsin progressivism soon after the turn of the century, was to provide protection for the workingman, and we doubt that the legislature will much longer be willing to classify the workingman on the farm as somehow less worthy or less qualified for the protection it has extended to hundreds of thousands of others in non-farm occupations.

We may venture the forecast also that the exemption of employers of less than four persons from the protection of the unemployment compensation law won't survive for many more years. The rationale in this program is the same. It is to provide some benefits for those who are unemployed through no fault of their own. But with the exemption provision that the law contains, the legislature has declared, as the late George Orwell would have put it, that some workingmen are more equal than others.

Our state capitol correspondent, taking note of the exemption of smaller employers the other day, speculated that one probable cause is the reluctance of many legislators, who are small businessmen, or lawyers or in other occupations with few employes, to vote a tax upon themselves. The unemployment compensation reserve fund is accumulated from assessments upon payrolls. But it is a progressive system, nevertheless, with the levies based on the employment experience of the employer. If he has a stable employment record, his payroll tax will decline accordingly, and there are thousands of employers in Wisconsin who have accumulated reserve accounts of sufficient size to entitle them to exemption from any tax except a nominal charge for the administration of the program.

As in the case of workmen's compensation, the legislature will ultimately recognize that the basic purpose of these programs is the welfare of the employe. It is difficult to accept the idea that a merchant, for example, who has four employes should be subject to the employment insurance program, while a competitor down the block who has three men working for him escapes this cost of doing business altogether.

Centralized Purchasing in Appleton

Hopefully at last, a system of centralized purchasing is in the process of being established within the Appleton city government and should lead to bargains for the tax-paying public.

The recent announcement that the city is taking bids at one time for more than a dozen vehicles and major pieces of equipment for four departments, instead of making separate purchases as usually was the case in the past, represents a big step in the right direction.

Local governments throughout the country are rapidly catching on to the undeniable fact that centralized purchasing makes for efficiency and economy in the daily and long-term operations of municipalities.

It is hoped that eventually, after the necessary machinery has been established for an all-out centralized purchasing program locally, all boards, commissions, agencies and departments will be under a mandatory requirement to participate.

To be successful, any continuing project of this nature must have the complete cooperation of the policymakers and administrative personnel. This is where the Common Council can be effective by boosting centralized purchasing whenever possible.

Extremists Losing Influence in China?

Americans have no direct way of knowing what is going on in China since we have no regular official diplomatic or trade relations with Peking. But there have been some subtle signs that the extremists of Mao Tse-tung's revered thoughts may be losing influence.

The Chinese Communist Party has announced that it will hold its first national congress since 1956. An editorial in People's Daily, obviously approved by government leaders, suggests that the congress ought to clamp down on the activities of the fanatical Red Guard. The party's constitution is also to be revised, according to the editorial, although along what lines has not been announced.

In December the Peking government announced that it would resume talks in Warsaw with the American Ambassador to Poland. The talks have been the only direct contact between American and Chinese diplomats and the Chinese cut them off last year.

But of even greater interest are reports brought to Hong Kong China watchers by refugees.

According to the reports there is widespread evasion of rules against private industries, a considerable amount of smuggling, black marketing and "underground" factories aimed at making profits for workers and operators. Some peasants have abandoned the collective plots they were supposed to work and have set up independent tile and brick units. Reports have also come from overseas Chinese of requests for money to invest in illegal activities.

Much of this may be wishful thinking among those who want communism to collapse in China and permit the Nationalists to return from Taiwan to take control. Communist reprisals against violators are apt to be severe and the ideology of Mao Tse-tung, Lenin and Marx is constantly repeated as a litany for all workers. But the Chinese have always been an industrious people which has often put them in trouble with native populations in other Asian lands where they have cornered small industry and shop ownership markets. As Mao gets older — and he is now 75 — he must relinquish power to others. It was, in fact, the slipping away of his influence that led to the Cultural Revolution which got out of hand.

There is danger in the emergence of China into closer association with the rest of the world if that emergence means a resumption of close ideological ties with the Soviet Union. But the splits within the Communist world at this point seem almost impossible of healing. China's continued belligerent isolation, combined with its growing nuclear capability, is something the U. S. should work diligently and diplomatically to end.

GOP Nominates Matt Carpenter

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for Jan. 28, 1869.

On Tuesday evening last, Hon. Matt H. Carpenter was nominated for U. S. Senator in Republican caucus after one of the bitterest and severest struggles had for that position for years.

He received the nomination on the 6th ballot, over Washburne, his principal opponent. Rublee, Waldo, Salomon were also candidates, but did not develop particular strength.

Mr. Carpenter is an able man and an eloquent one in the prime of life, well qualified to fill the position to which he has succeeded even against the Regency (those in state power in Republican party), provided he does not allow himself to become engulfed in the altruisms of the Radical party which has been his support for some years past.

25 YEARS AGO
Saturday, Jan. 22, 1944.

Clayton Center 4-H Club was making plans to give a three-act play. Named to the committee were Dorothy Withbrod, Helen Manteufel, Catherine Kulogo, Nick Kulogo, Donald Mentzel and Robert Johnson.

Miss Sophia Haase, head of the foreign language department at Appleton High School, was to talk on the summer in Europe to members of the Edward Weis Miller chapter of Quill and Scroll.

J. R. Whitman was to show movies of his trip to Death Valley to members of the Appleton Camera Club.

10 YEARS AGO
Saturday, Jan. 24, 1959.

Student Council representatives at Seymour Elementary School were Billy Trost, Jane Gavronski, Margo Gardner, James Peotter, Ricky Eisenreich, Karen Schleiker, Jack Wussow, Sidney O'Brien, Kathryn Piehl, Judy Tierney, Betty Vander Zaden, Donald Hacker, Kathy Parks, Marlin Nelson, Judy Evans and Ronald Abel. They represented Grades Four through Eight.

Sally Eick was president of the Council; Wayne Graul, vice president; Judy Evans, secretary, and Kathy Parks, treasurer.

James Tubbs and Rose Ann Wittuhn were elected captains of the school Safety Patrol. Lieutenants were James Veitch and Betty Vander Zaden.

City Workers Not Too Tired To Help Out

Editor, The Post-Crescent:

This morning at 6 o'clock my husband and I had our car hopelessly stuck in our driveway. Two kind men working for Appleton, plowing snow nearby, came to our rescue. These men had already been on the job for ten hours with two hours left to go, but they were still so pleasant and helpful we feel just saying thank you wasn't enough. Please print this note of appreciation so all your readers know what wonderful men we have working for us.

BY JOHN T. WHEELER

Associated Press Writer
BANGKOK (AP) — The domino theory of a possible Communist takeover in Asia may be dead in official Washington, but it survives in many Southeast Asian capitals and among some Western diplomats.

A U. S. Embassy official and a British diplomat, talking at a recent cocktail party, found themselves in quick agreement on the Briton's statement. "The name of the game is still dominoes."

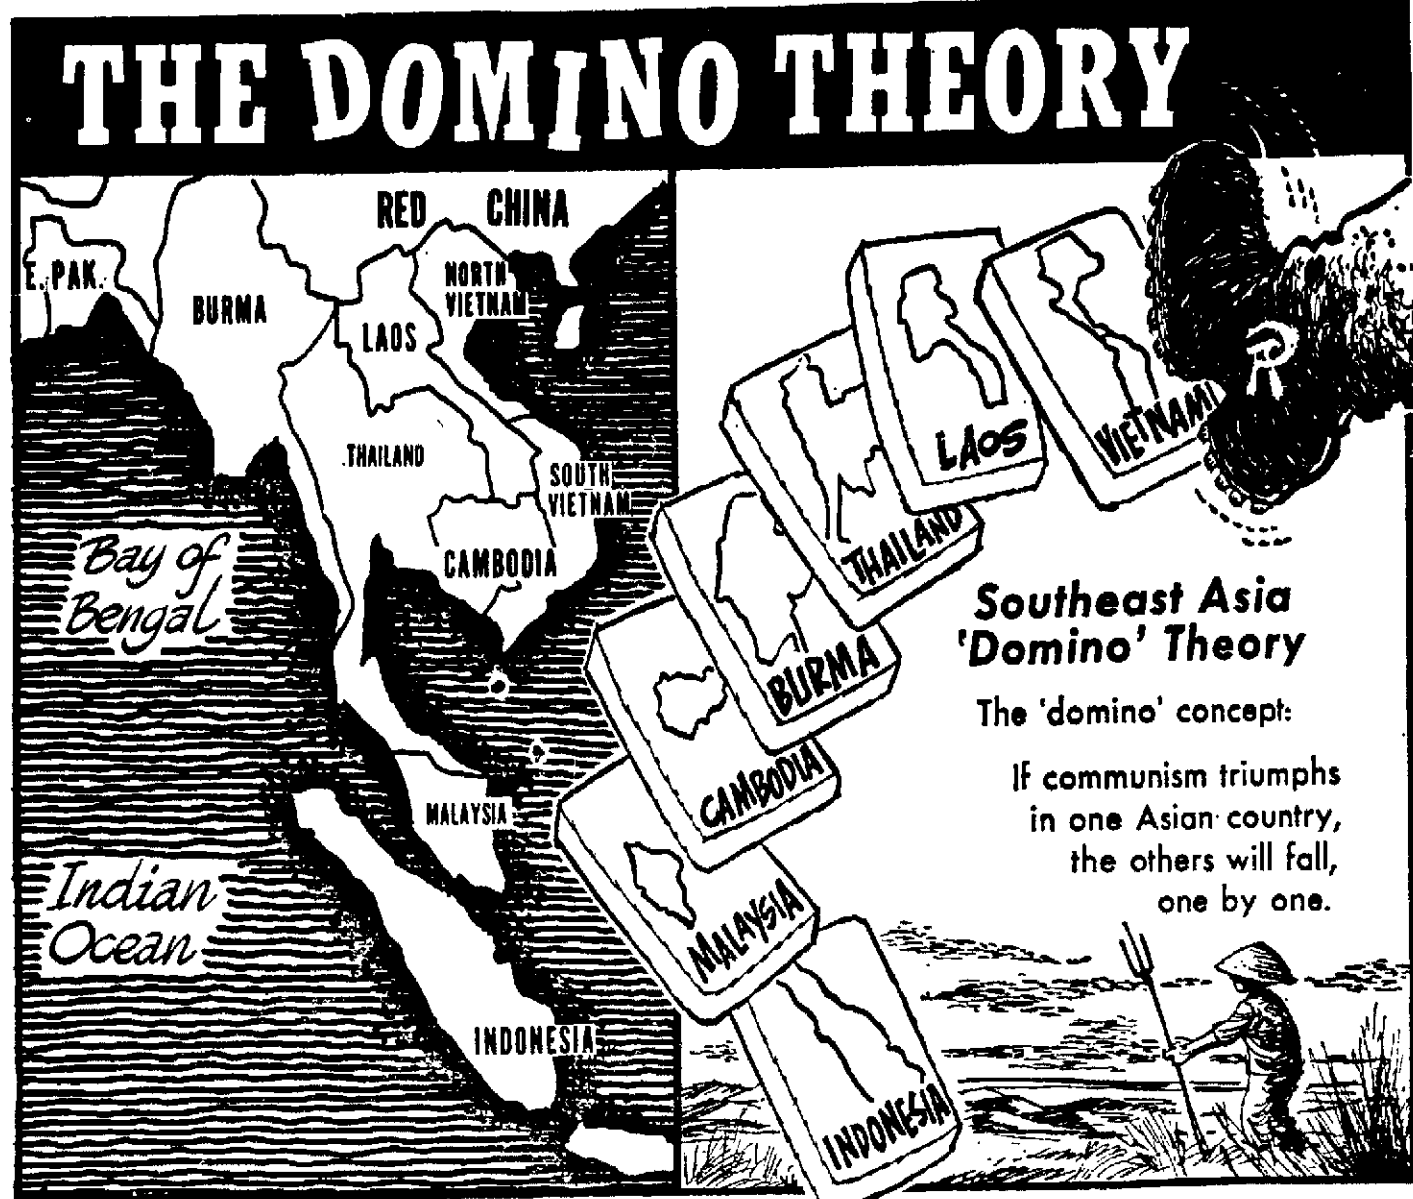

The domino concept was born during the Eisenhower administration under then-Secretary of State John Foster Dulles. The idea was that if communism triumphed in one Asian country, then the others would go under, one by one.

NIXON VIEW UNKNOWN
The official line now is that the concept is not true at present even if it might have been once. U. S. diplomats say they do not know how President Nixon will view the situation. Nixon was vice president in the Eisenhower administration. Diplomats here expect an exhaustive review of U. S. aims in Asia and their possible costs in money, prestige and military commitments.

To prevent the dominoes from falling, the United States founded the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization (SEATO) on Sept. 8, 1954, in Manila. The alliance, headquartered in Bangkok, has never been strong and without the United States would be a dead letter. Britain and France were to be the other major "muscle" powers. Although both still belong to SEATO, neither could be expected to commit troops. Australia and New Zealand, who are U. S. allies in Vietnam, are not considered here to be eager to send troops to any new Asian war.

When queried on the subject, diplomats from several Asian countries said they feared eventual U. S. withdrawal from Vietnam would signal a general disengagement in the region. They considered it highly unlikely that the United States would become enmeshed in a new Asian land war.

WEALTH IN SOUTH
Depending on a long-range American determination and Communist intentions and timetables, some diplomats speculate the dominoes could fall this way — Vietnam, Laos, Thailand, Burma, Cambodia, Malaysia and Indonesia. Indonesia, the world's fifth most populous nation, is the only country on the list not on the Asian mainland.

For a number of years diplomats have said that the Vietnam war was only a partial end in itself. The real wealth of Southeast Asia lies in the countries further to the south — Thailand for its huge rice surplus and rubber, Malaysia for tin, bauxite, rubber and timber, Indonesia for oil, numerous metals and vast potential for development.

The Philippines already face a resurgence of the once-quelled Huk rebellion. South Korea and Taiwan survive thanks to U. S. military might.

On paper the combined military forces of non-and anti-Communist nations from Pakistan to Japan are numerically superior to the land forces of the big three — Red China, North Korea and North Vietnam. Although there are divisions and ideological conflicts among the three, they are nothing to compare with the feuds and squabbles among the other countries. The India-Pakistan feud is the most dramatic example of this.

Although the United States has committed hundreds of millions of dollars to bolster the Laotian government through economic and military aid, Vientiane has been told firmly that under no circumstances will U. S. troops be sent. This despite the fact that Laos officially is protected by the SEATO "umbrella" of solemn diplomatic treaty.

Thai officials are privately concerned about what they consider weakening U. S. resolve in Southeast Asia. The key question is whether Washington would order U. S. ground troops into Thailand if the present insurgency got out of hand, as it well might now. Red China apparently has sent tribal troops across the Laotian border into north Thailand with weapons that compare in sophistication with those used by elite North Vietnamese units in South Vietnam.

To greater or lesser degree there are active guerrilla movements in Burma, the Philippines, Malaysia, India and Cambodia. The once-powerful Indonesian Communist Party is in disarray in the wake of the abortive October, 1965, attempted coup but few consider it dead.

NEXT TROUBLE SPOTS?

The fear in Southeast Asia is that once the Vietnam problem is resolved, Peking and Hanoi will waste little time turning their efforts elsewhere.

Peking's involvement in Thailand is certain. The level is the only unknown. Peking also is deeply involved in Burma and to a lesser extent India and Malaysia.

All serious governments have contingency plans to deal with as many likely future alternatives as they can imagine. Malaysia's prime minister, Tunku Abdul Rahman, has said his country must bow to Red Chinese pressure if it is brought to bear on his country. The privately have said the only long range hope for non- and anti-Communist Asia is a strong military alliance that the United States could back but should not be expected to lead. President Johnson's statement that American boys shouldn't die in wars Asian boys should fight themselves was not a new theory when it was given in 1964.

The prospects for such an alliance appear almost nil, although some U. S. diplomats talk hopefully of an Asia military organization evolving once it becomes clear that the United States no longer will pour in divisions and treasure to prevent any Communist expansion in the region.

president of the Philippines has said American withdrawal from the region would mean Manila would have to find some way to live with Peking. In Burma the saying, "When China spits, Burma swims," is more true than ever. Thailand has kept its independence by playing the big countries off against each other and shedding or making alliances as the situation seems to dictate.

Wisconsin Report

Justice Hallows Faces Opposition, Recalls Hansen's Defeat of Currie

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — The disclosure that for the second time in two years a chief justice of the State Supreme Court will be required to fight for re-election will probably dispose finally of the assumptions about tenure of sitting judges that prevailed during such a long period of the state's history.

Chief Justice E. Harold Hallows, a veteran of more than a decade on the bench, a distinguished lawyer before his appointment, and a man against whom it is difficult to imagine any effective or popular issues that can be raised, evidently knew that competition was likely. He made his formal announcement of candidacy for a new term only at the turn of the year; but his deliberate pace of travel about the state and accepting public speaking engagements made his intentions clear months ago.

Now he has a first declared opponent in Circuit Judge Clair Voss of Waukesha County. There may be others. Indeed, some of Hallows' friends tend to hope that there will be other rivals, thus forcing a primary election and a mobilization of the judicial and legal establishment that would otherwise probably be more difficult. The "troops," as the saying goes, will be less inclined to invest their efforts, assuming that the defeat of the head of the judicial system is unlikely, in the absence of a truly popular or comprehensive issue — which is the situation that obtains today.

Yet that is precisely what

happened last year to the intense surprise of all except a few of the more attentive students of such affairs. George R. Currie was also the incumbent chief justice. He was one of the most distinguished legal figures in the state. There was no credible issue raised against him. But a hard campaigner, also a circuit judge in Milwaukee, decided to defy the "sitting judge" rule nevertheless, and the result is that Robert Hansen is now sitting on the court and Justice Currie, not yet ready to retire, is working as a teacher at the University of Wisconsin Law School.

The historical security of judges in spite of this state's consistent preference for an elective judiciary was defied most dramatically 20 years ago this year by the late Henry P. Hughes of Oshkosh, then also a circuit judge.

The ambitious, energetic Hughes, who perished recently at an untimely age in an automobile collision, made one run against a long sitting judge, collected an impressive chunk of votes, and was encouraged to make another effort the following year. He challenged J. Ward Rector, a recent appointee to the court by his friend the late Gov. Walter S. Goodland. Rector had never been on the ballot before. Like so many men in his situation, he found it difficult to compete for attention with a man of Hughes' energies and temperament. Hughes defeated him decisively.

A few years later another top-ranking lawyer who had had a brief tenure on the court by appointment encountered the same problem of a challenge by a man better known to the voters and was retired. Thus today no judge can prudently assume that he won't be opposed when his term runs out or that he cannot be unseated.

It is not easy for the member of an appeals court to make an effective campaign, or even one that attracts attention, if he has a decent regard for the dignity or obligations of his office. He travels as much as he can. He turns up at civic clubs and bar meetings to make little speeches filled with homilies about justice under law, or textbook like descriptions of the functioning of the judiciary, and other less than exciting topics.

Typically an opponent, especially one not yet on any bench, has more leeway — at least in attracting attention. Currently, moreover, there is a well-grounded feeling that some of the lesser judiciary is discontented about a recent code promulgated by the high court which touches upon the rights and privileges of the trial court judge in his private capacity.

Several years ago there was a drive for a modification of the elective judiciary rule through a change to the so-called Missouri plan. This calls for the appointment by the governor in the first instance, and re-election or defeat on the record of the incumbent, where upon the appointive process, with the assistance of a public nominating group, would be repeated. But it attracted little support and has been dropped, according to all appearances, in favor of the unqualified elective system that has prevailed during the entire history of the state.

How Can Nixon Now Deny Salary Hikes to Others?

Editor, The Post-Crescent:

How can President Nixon in good conscience combat inflation after accepting a 100 percent salary increase?

Was his campaign pronouncement of inflation, what Wendel Wilkie once called "just campaign oratory"?

Does not the electorate of this country have a right to look to their leaders for ethical as well as political leadership?

I do not say the salary increase is excessive when compared with salaries of similar position. But I do say it is ill-timed and ill-advised in view of his campaign pronouncements. Certainly his rejection of the salary increase would entail no greater monetary sacrifice on his part than that some of his cabinet members are experiencing.

Is one justified in denying another or others what he himself accepts?

Did the outgoing administration cleverly bait a trap for Nixon? Or did Congress skillfully give the Boss a raise before asking a raise for themselves?

Is this the way to inaugurate an anti-inflation campaign?

If City Needs Money, How About Taxing Cats?

Editor, The Post-Crescent:

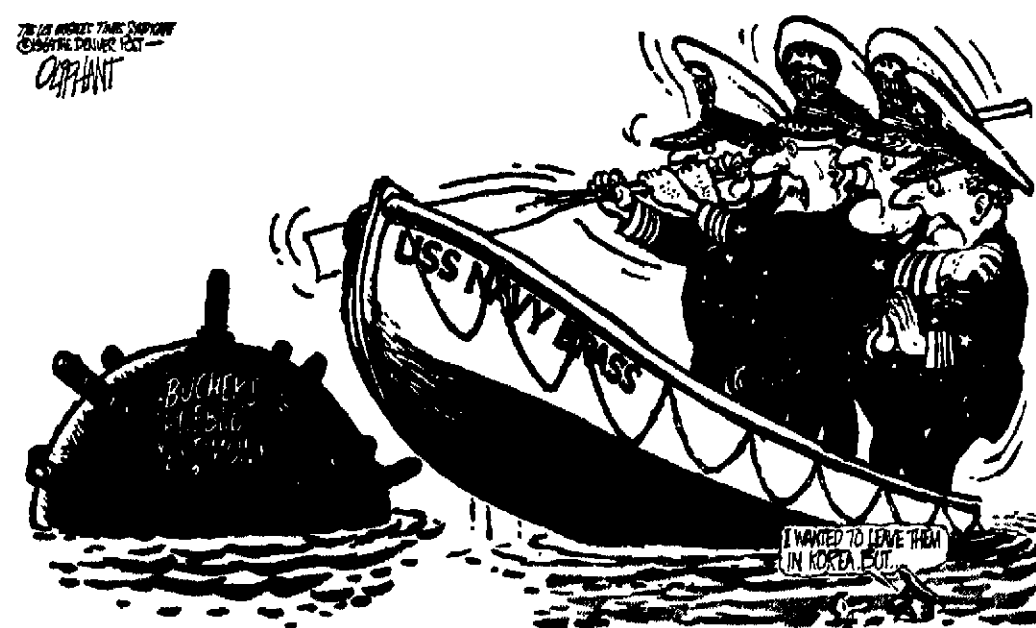

The City of Appleton is always looking for ways of making more money, so why aren't cat owners obligated to get their pets licensed and keep them tied as the dog owners must?

I think cats do twice the damage of dogs, and yet they are allowed to run wherever they like. In the summertime they catch birds and tear them apart and let them lay, because they only do it for the sport and not because they are underfed. You can't have a sandbox without covering it at night, or they make it their toilet.

Even in the wintertime, we have to put up with them because the owners think it is cruel to keep them in the house, or tied up. Instead, if you don't put the garage door down immediately, you have a family of cats keeping warm by sitting on top of the car. You are afraid to make a fast move, or they will scratch the top of your automobile.

I think this issue should be given serious consideration, as there seems to be more and more cats allowed to run free. What is good for one pet owner should be good for another!

Road Erosion Costs Could Top $9 Million in Wisconsin

First Roadside Survey Reported At Annual Highway Conference

Special to The Post-Crescent

The cost of correcting erosion along state, federal, county and town roads in Wisconsin will be $8 or $9 million, U. S. Soil Conservationists told delegates this week at the 56th annual State Mid-Winter Highway Conference in the Hotel Northland.

William Briggs, soil conservationist, and Leonard Massie, University of Wisconsin agricultural engineer, reported on the nation's first roadside erosion survey, and outlined ways to combat erosion and beautify highways.

"This is the first statewide survey in the country," Briggs said, "and it covered 21,000 sites on 100,000 miles of the Milwaukee area."

He said the survey which took all of last summer has now been completed and is being put out in book form which will be available to county highway departments in the near future.

Worst Roads
"Town roads faced the worst in the survey," Briggs said, "with 73 per cent of the erosion on town roads, 23 per cent on county roads, and only 4 per cent on federal and state roads. The erosion ranged from lack of grass on roadside slopes, to dangerous erosion eating into the sides of highways."

Maps showing the extent of county highway erosion indicated that Brown County had 4 to 6 million feet of erosion, while Marinette, Shawano, Oconto, Door, and Kewaunee counties were listed in the 2 to 4 million foot classes.

Overall, the northeast counties of the state were better than average on the least amount of erosion.

Massie said county road erosion was more prevalent in the northern counties than in the south, while town roads were the worst in the northwest part of the state.

Briggs said the complete report would contain the ages of roads and cause of erosion such as stream banks, construction, maintenance, wind, and would show maps of counties with erosion areas broken down.

Labor Negotiating
The conference found itself embroiled in a labor negotiating situation during a panel discussion asked about a strike situation of county highway employees recently in Chippewa county.

It brought many delegates to the floor reporting on respective labor negotiations. The discussion had to be cut off for lack of time, but E. Francis Brunette, Brown County highway commissioner, and panel moderator, named a committee would be called to study the overall situation and return a recommendation to the convention.

Robert Mortenson, executive secretary of the Wisconsin County Boards Association, said consideration should be given to labor negotiating affairs.

The conference adopted 23 resolutions including one urging the "three-man state highway commission and its administrative functions as designated in the Wisconsin statutes of 1965 be continued to insure fair policies and equitable expenditures of highway funds for the whole state of Wisconsin," and another urging the retention of the highway field accounting section of the Department of Transportation and the public interest.

Bridge Bonding
W. R. Redmond, chairman of the division of highways, pinch hitting for Lt. Gov. Jack Olson, whose plane was grounded by fog in Madison and he was unable to appear, said "both Olson and Gov. Warren Knowles are in complete accord and urge support for bridge bonding in Wisconsin and will do all in their power to gain favorable legislation."

Quoting a telephone conversation with Olson, Redmond said the lieutenant governor favored bridge bonding as having a good effect overall and should help all highway projects.

"Good highways, like hard work, never killed anybody," Redmond quoted Olson as saying, "and urged continued progress in transportation which is absolutely vital to the state's economy."

B. O. Binney, vice chairman of the division of highways, stressed safety on the highways as "everyone's business, and especially ours."

Binney said the department continued its program during the year of making highways safer by realignment, widening, access control, structure improvements, signal and guard rail installations, signing, shouldering and lighting.

"Despite a miserable start in the first five months of the year with total traffic fatalities up 106 over the same period in 1967, the end of the year showed a total of just 22 more deaths than in 1967 with 1,161 as compared with 1,149," Binney said.

"The last seven months actually showed a decline of 101 fatalities over the same period of 1967," he said. "All of us here today certainly hope that this is a trend that will continue."

Binney said the statewide vehicle inspection program which began in July was a major step in safety. Random inspection of vehicles was conducted throughout the state by 18 three-man teams.

He said highway safety depended on what the driver does as an individual, noting that "we are only as safe as the highways to the extent that each of us strives to be safe."

V. L. Fiedler, secretary of the commission of the division of highways, urged complete communication to strengthen state-county relationships.

"In order to effectively and successfully carry out any programs we must have understanding," Fiedler said, "and this understanding can only come from effective communication whether it be written or verbal. Studies of management problems in industry indicate that many of these problems are traceable to failures in communications."

"Communication is not something that it leads to cooperation," Fiedler said, "we do not necessarily have to always agree, often we will not, but the success of any undertaking is dependent to a great extent on being understood by others."

Updating Proposed Bill Would Bring State Open Housing Laws in Line With U.S. Act

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — A proposal to bring the state laws under the provisions of the federal open housing act has been introduced in the Wisconsin State Senate.

Drafted by Sen. Norman Sussman, D-Milwaukee, the bill would update the state's anti-discrimination in housing statute enacted by the 1965 Legislature.

The intent of the Sussman bill is to make the state law compatible with the provisions of the recently enacted federal housing act.

The existing state law exempts a number of housing situations from the ban on discrimination on sales or rental. Included in the exemptions are single family houses which are owner-occupied. Also included are owner-occupied buildings with four or less dwelling units.

Exempted under the provisions of the Wisconsin law are buildings on lots which are smaller than 60 feet by 120 feet if the owner lives on the lot and there are four or less family living units on the lot. Owner-occupied buildings with four or less dwelling units are also exempt at present.

The proposed bill would continue the exemptions on owner-occupied buildings with four or less rooms for rent and the buildings with four or less dwelling units.

It would also exempt single family houses if the owner does not own more than three such houses. If the house is sold by anyone other than the occupant of the house — if the house is being used for rental purposes — only one such sale in two years would be permitted to comply with the exemption.

Effective in 1970, only single family houses sold without the services of a real estate broker and without any discriminatory advertising, would be exempt from the provisions of the Sussman proposal.

The bill also would flatly prohibit discrimination in the inclusion of such properties in real estate brokers' listings and similar services.

Religious societies would be exempt from the law if initial membership in such groups is not made up on a discriminatory basis on grounds other than religion. Private clubs which are not open to the public would be exempt if they, as an adjunct to their prime purpose, also offered living quarters to their members or with first preference given their members.

The bill has been sent to the senate public welfare committee.

Killed in Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — Four Wisconsin men were among 34 servicemen listed Friday by the Pentagon as having been fatally wounded in Vietnam.

They were: Marine Cpl. Vernon L. Nelson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joy Nelson of rural Glenwood City.

Army Spec. 6 Gary B. Gehrke, husband of Ellen Gehrke, Woodruff.

Army Pfc. Marvin L. Erickson, husband of Rosemary Erickson, Ashland.

Army Pfc. James R. Knox, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard J. Knox of rural Newton.

communication to strengthen state-county relationships.

"In order to effectively and successfully carry out any programs we must have understanding," Fiedler said, "and this understanding can only come from effective communication whether it be written or verbal. Studies of management problems in industry indicate that many of these problems are traceable to failures in communications."

"Communication is not something that it leads to cooperation," Fiedler said, "we do not necessarily have to always agree, often we will not, but the success of any undertaking is dependent to a great extent on being understood by others."

Updating Proposed Bill Would Bring State Open Housing Laws in Line With U.S. Act

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — A proposal to bring the state laws under the provisions of the federal open housing act has been introduced in the Wisconsin State Senate.

Drafted by Sen. Norman Sussman, D-Milwaukee, the bill would update the state's anti-discrimination in housing statute enacted by the 1965 Legislature.

The intent of the Sussman bill is to make the state law compatible with the provisions of the recently enacted federal housing act.

The existing state law exempts a number of housing situations from the ban on discrimination on sales or rental. Included in the exemptions are single family houses which are owner-occupied. Also included are owner-occupied buildings with four or less dwelling units.

Too Much Acid is a Meaningless Phrase

By GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What foods have too much acid and I don't know what foods to leave out of my diet. — J.N.

This phrase, "too much acid," ought to be abolished. Used in a generally like "my system has too much acid," it means absolutely nothing. Even when used leave an alkaline — not an acid — residue after they are digested. That is true of many others.

J. N. doesn't tell me how he (or she) came to decide that the trouble was "acid in the system," but it's quite likely that wasn't a medical diagnosis.

What J.N. needs is to pin down exactly what the complaint is and then find the proper cure. Guessing that it is "acid" and giving up some food or other isn't going to do a blessed bit of good.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is hair coloring dangerous? Some say it causes poisoning. Others say it causes brain damage. If so, shouldn't women be told? — H.R.F.

Yes, I guess it would be "better" to tell, but it wouldn't be "better" if they'd stop listening to every wheezy old scare story that comes down the pike.

Hair dyes do not cause brain damage. Nor do they cause poisoning, with this exception: some skins are sensitive to certain kinds. Therefore smart beauticians use a patch test to see whether a client is sensitive before applying the various solutions used these days to make women look other than the way they really are.

I've heard these "poisoning" and "brain damage" stories for years but never found a scrap of evidence to support them except — as I just said — skin irritation is sometimes a problem.

Note to Mrs. I.D.: Chores, or St. Vitus dance, resulting from some cases of rheumatic fever, corrects itself spontaneously in a few years. It leaves no after-effects. (The rheumatic fever can, however.)

LONDON (AP) — A section of the white cliffs of Dover, the chalk heights that symbolized Britain's wartime steadfastness against Hitler, has been bought by the National Trust.

Another much misunderstood notion is that acidulous or sour fruits or foods are going to "make the system acid." By and large, they don't. Citrus fruits, for a principal example, to France.

Again, some other stomach distress can result from too little acid, and the answer is to treat the patient to restore proper acidity.

If, in cases in which the blood genuinely becomes too acid, that's a very serious condition. Just omitting some food or other cannot possibly help. The patient needs detailed examination and tests, not some sort of diet gimmicks.

Sunday Concert Shows Role of Philanthropy in Modern Day Music

Conductor Fred G. Schroeder Picks Five Works for Lawrence Symphony Band Event

Philanthropy's role in modern music will keynote the first concert of the season of Lawrence University Symphony and Sunday. The program will begin at 3 p.m. in Memorial Chapel.

Five major works are planned for the program by conductor Fred G. Schroeder, all of them composed under support of philanthropic foundations, or by composers whose careers have been aided at other times by private grants.

The pieces include a 1965 Sinfonietta for Winds and Percussion, by Czech-born composer Oskar Morawetz, a Canadian resident and recipient of a Canada Council Fellowship in 1961; "Symphony for Band," written in 1964 by New York composer Robert Washburn, who as one of the first 12 young composers to receive Ford Foundation grants in 1959 under a massive program for the arts; The 1967 "Liturgical Music for Band," by Martin Mailman, another of the Ford Grant recipients; "Helix for Solo Tuba and Concert Band," written in 1968 by Warren Benson, an established composer who earlier had benefited from Fulbright teaching grants; and a "Suite of Old American Dances," composed in 1949 by Robert Russell Bennett, one of this country's most successful and prolific writer-composers, whose craft was developed earlier under Guggenheim fellowships.

Edie Adams Stars for Jackie

BY TV SCOUT

6:30-7:30 Channels 2-7 - Television has been hit with a rash of good impressionists and tonight on The Jackie Gleason Show we have one who is the loveliest. Edie Adams is the star, doing several of her better spoofs and also singing the title song from "Cabaret." Milton Berle is another guest, gabbing with Gleason the same as you've seen many times before. George Carlin has a funny bit, scripted by himself, about the neglected little shows and people of TV. Music comes from The Fifth Dimension. (C)

4-5 Channels 11-9 - ABC's Wide World of Sports covers the Ladies Demolition Derby from Long Island and also travels to Hawaii's Sunset Beach for the Hawaiian Big Wave Surfing Championship. Surfers are not allowed to take any wave under 15 feet. (C)

5-6:30 Channels 11-9 - The $100,000 Bing Crosby Pro-Am Golf Championship comes our way from Pebble Beach, Calif. This is the semi-final round of the popular competition with coverage of the 14th to 18th holes featured. Bing is the commentator with assists from Chris Schenkel, Bill Flemming, Jim McKay and Byron Nelson. (C)

7:30-8 Channel 5 - Captain Gregg comes to life on The Ghost and Mrs. Muir, or at least an unreasonable facsimile. It all comes about when Carolyn Muir's parents arrive for a visit and discover that there is a man in their daughter's life, Captain Gregg. They believe the man is flesh and blood and hope Carolyn will marry him, so the crafty Captain recreates himself to solve the sticky situation. (C)

7:30-8 Channels 2-7 - My Three Sons has a change of pace tonight with Steve tabbed for some super spying for the Air Force. All this is unknown to the family. They're worried that "G r a n d p a" is slowing down. Anne Jeffreys plays the Mata Hari who is Steve's contact. (C)

8-10:30 Channel 5 - There's romance, comedy, song and sensitivity in "A Hole in the Head" on Saturday Night at the Movies. Frank Sinatra stars as a n'er-do-well widower in Miami trying to raise his son (Eddie Hodges). His life is complicated by a nutty girlfriend (Carolyn Jones) and a sensible friend of the family (Eleanor Parker). He is faced with the possible loss of his two-bit hotel and even the loss of his son, so he does the last thing in the world he wants

State to Renew Lease For Wolf River Shore

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON - The Legislature will be asked to renew the state lease with Menominee Enterprises, Inc., of shorelands along 34 miles of the scenic Wolf River in Menominee County to assure their preservation and availability for public use.

Such legislation was endorsed Thursday at a meeting of the Menominee Indian Study Committee, and Sen. Reuben LaFave said he would have it drafted and submitted to the Legislature.

But LaFave was told by Indian members of the Menominee Enterprises that the $150,000 a year paid to the company each year for the last three years did not represent a fair appraisal of the value of the lands, and that the new bill to do, he calls on his brother for help. Edward G. Robinson and Thelma Ritter play the big brother and wife. The film features the song "High Hopes," which won the Best Song Oscar in 1959.

8:30-9:30 Channels 11-9 - Don Knotts is the surprising singing host of The Hollywood Palace, warbling a thing called "Mr. Excitement," written especially for him. There's also Dean's daughter, Gail Martin, leggy, lovely Cyd Charisse, Bobby Vinton, The Checkmates and a funny femme Maureen Arthur.

Federal officials have talked about buying strips of land along scenic rivers to protect the streams for posterity, and to provide access to them for their recreational and scenic enjoyment.

But Jerome Grignon, chairman of the Menominee Enterprises, said that it is the consensus of the corporation officers that they would prefer a leasing arrangement with Washington, and that they intend to negotiate on that basis when the time comes.

Sen. Gaylord Nelson of Wisconsin succeeded in adding the Wolf River, among others in Wisconsin, to the new wild rivers authorization act of the Congress, but that act has not yet been funded. Nor is there any assurance when federal financing will come, said Hilary Waukau, an Indian member of the committee, so that the state should continue its arrangements with the community corporation until the federal program is made effective.

Sen. Nelson said he would have it drafted and submitted to the Legislature.

Winnebago County War on Winter Puts Road Budget on Skids

OSHKOSH—Snow—and its removal from the 900 miles of road in Winnebago County during the past 38 days—have left the highway commission in a hole.

As a result, county highway officials are preparing to dig deeper in the treasury—while praying for better weather.

Robert Graf, highway commissioner, disclosed Friday that the snow maintenance cushion is half gone.

"We thought that we would have $25,000 left in the 1968 winter maintenance budget, bringing the 1969 total to $70,000—but we won't have."

"About $12,000 was spent in late December, and from Jan. 1 to Jan. 15, maintenance expense on county trunk highways was in excess of $18,000," he said. "So, we're down to $42,000."

The biggest portion, $17,000, is for machinery rental, and the balance is for labor, plus salt and sand.

The county operates 42 pieces of snow removal equipment to clear federal, state and county roads. Graf's crews cleared all of the county's town roads except in the Town of Menasha, which is highly urbanized and rents its own equipment.

Towns are billed for the service, with some funds also coming from the state and federal government.

"Since Dec. 19 when the storms began piling up snow and ice, we have had problems with water blocked by high snow banks and plugging ditches and culverts; patching holes in the roadways, slippery conditions and drifting," Graf elaborated.

"Our crews have worked every day but two since one week before Christmas, and they have been very cooperative," he added.

"When you see the big V-plow and wing operating, residents I'm sure are not aware that it costs 40 cents a minute. Our 15 V-plows have worked harder to date this winter than they have since the winter of 1958-59."

The big rotary plow which cleared Winnebago County Airport costs $22.30 per hour to operate and several days this winter it has had 24-hour duty. By Jan. 13, it had logged 173 hours, for a total cost of $3,850 since New Year's Day.

Out-guessing the weather is a game Graf refuses to play, declining to predict conditions ahead. But, watching forecasts and preparing to keep the roads open is a situation which confronts him every day.

Right now he thinks that the county highway department's winter maintenance department will operate on a deficit in 1969. How much? Impossible to say at this time, but he will ask his finance committee to have the department to operate at a deficit—and continue to plow snow as required.

2 Youths Hurt In Two-Car Neenah Crash

NEENAH — Two youths sustained injuries at 1 p.m. Friday in a two-car collision at the intersection of Main Street and Green Bay Road.

Dennis C. Theisen, 16, 945 Sleepy Hollow, Menasha, was taken to Theda Clark Hospital for minor cuts on his nose and forehead. Neenah police took a passenger in his car, Mary Roek, 16, 1109 E. Forest, Neenah, to a doctor's office for removal of glass from her eye.

According to police, a vehicle driven by Mark J. Mischler, 19, 1686 Jacobson Road, Neenah, was eastbound on Main Street and collided with the Theisen car, which was traveling north on Green Bay Road.

Four Typewriters Taken From FVTI

OSHKOSH — Further investigation by county police into an early Friday burglary of the Fox Valley Technical Institute (FVTI) headquarters revealed that four electric typewriters valued at a total of $1,880 were stolen. A petty cash fund of about $5 was also missing.

The FVTI offices are located at 1919 N. Lake St., Town of Menasha.

Capping Ceremonies were held Thursday for 12 Red Cross volunteers who are working part time in Banta and Gegan elementary schools. The Menasha workers patch up scratches, check for illnesses and aid with other health problems of pupils. Menasha School Board Readies $2.7 Million Building Bond Request

MENASHA — The board of education is expected to formalize plans Monday night to ask the fiscal control body on Feb. 4 to approve a primary bond resolution of $2.7 million.

Along with the $1.8 million for a new junior high school and $825,000 for remodeling the senior high, the bond will include from $50,000 to $70,000 for construction of a maintenance building.

The fiscal control body has met with the school board to view architect's plans of both the proposed junior high and remodeling projects, but neither the fiscal control body nor the board have seen a design of the maintenance building.

The maintenance repair shop, which also may house the district's buses, is expected to be located on Earl Street in the Town of Menasha.

The board of education is expected also to ask the city-town fiscal board on Feb. 4 for permission to construct the building.

Butte des Morts Junior High School, which was constructed in the late 1920's for elementary grade use, has already reached its 750 capacity, even though an addition was constructed in 1963.

The proposed junior high also will have a capacity for 750 students and will be designed to allow expansion in the future if necessary.

Trial Talks Set For OSU Blacks

OSHKOSH — A pre-trial conference on Jan. 31 with Lloyd Wood County.

County judges assigned to the Third Circuit Court of Winnebago and Calumet Counties by Court Administrator Edwin Wilke, are:

David H. Sebor, Calumet; Donald Schnable, Lincoln; Wendell Mc Henry, Waupaca; Boyd Clark, Waushara; Jerold E. Murphy, Fond du Lac; Andrew Cotter, Marquette; Ferdinand H. Schlichting, Sheboygan; Raymond Dohr, Outagamie, and Hazen Mc Essey, Fond du Lac.

The conference has been set up to go over methods of procedure in each case, what motions will be entered and how the individual cases are to be handled, according to the court.

Judge William E. Crane, Third Judicial Circuit Court, who cleared more than 60 cases from the fall calendar since his appointment last October, said the current term is the heaviest in the court's history.

"New litigations have left us about where we were last fall when he started," Judge Crane stated. "Litigations are increasing and we must call upon area judges to lend a hand if the calendar is to be handled expeditiously."

Oshkosh Postal Job Awaits Ruling

WASHINGTON — Specific details of the procedure for filling the months-old Oshkosh postmaster vacancy will depend on decision from Postmaster General Winton M. Blount, and will probably take at least a month in coming, Rep. William A. Steiger said this week.

The Republican congressman from Oshkosh said it is possible all applicants for the job who entered the competition under the Democratic administration last fall may be told to file again. Or, their applications may be retained while new ones are accepted.

At present, the Civil Service Commission is investigating the 15 applicants remaining from an original list of 20.

Once they all have been investigated, they will be rated in order of qualifications and "veterans' points" — credit for having served in the armed forces — will be added. Steiger said it is estimated the investigation process could take 60 to 90 days.

The congressman has announced repeatedly that he will recommend the applicant with the highest civil service rating, though it is his option to make the recommendation on a political basis.

Steiger also is among congressmen who have sponsored or supported proposals for legislation to do away with political appointments of postmasters.

Another change Steiger recently announced he will propose now that the Republican Nixon administration is in office is to require written examinations for persons seeking first class postmasterhips — such as the one vacant at the Oshkosh facility.

The applicants for the Oshkosh position are required only to undergo oral examination under present civil service department and postal department rules.

Steiger said the Oshkosh vacancy is the only one currently existing in the seven-county

Sixth District which he represents. The vacancy appeared last June 1 with the retirement of Postmaster Ray Novotny.

Plant Accident Kills Worker At New Holstein

Myrus G. Hollister Dies After Being Crushed by Truck

NEW HOLSTEIN — Myrus G. Hollister, 33, 74 Ryan St., Elkhart Lake, was pronounced dead on arrival at Calumet Memorial Hospital shortly before 2 a.m. today after being crushed by a truck in an accident at Tecumseh Products plant here.

Hollister was an employee of the plant which manufactures gasoline engines. He was rushed from the plant to Chilton by Kiel Ambulance after the accident.

Leroy Hughes, Calumet County Coroner, said cause of death is undetermined.

Hughes said Hollister sustained crushing injuries but is ordering a post mortem examination to determine the exact cause of death.

A further investigation is being made as to the cause of the accident.

Funeral arrangements are pending at the Wittkopp Funeral Home, Plymouth.

Ex-Chairman Enters Race

Lecker to Challenge Ira Livingston for Grand Chute Post

Arthur Lecker, 2927 N. Oneida St., former Grand Chute town chairman and supervisor, is challenging Ira Livingston Jr. for the town's top post in the spring election.

Lecker served as town chairman from 1953 to 1965 when he was defeated by present town chairman, Tom Thorson. He was town supervisor from 1943 to 1953.

Thorson announced late last month he was not seeking reelection. Livingston, who is a town board supervisor, is running for the chairman's post the first time.

Lecker took out nomination papers Thursday. Livingston previously filed his papers with Les Woldt, town clerk.

Woldt also announced that seven persons have taken out papers for supervisory positions, including incumbent Ed Zielger.

Others who have filed include James Casper and Donald J. Mattison.

Taking out papers this week were Bernard Tillman, who previously served as supervisor for 10 years and for the past three years represented the town on the county board; Thomas Foxgrover, who two years ago made an unsuccessful bid for supervisor; Keith Schoenrock, and Bert Weyenberg.

John Artt, incumbent constable, is being opposed by David Neubert. Woldt, Assessor John R. Stevens and Treasurer Eugene Paltzer are unopposed to date. The deadline for filing papers is 5 p.m. on Jan. 28.

Directors Still Weigh Decision On Brigade Expansion Program

NEENAH — The board of directors of the Boys' Brigade is expected to have its decision on the Brigade's proposed building program by Tuesday, according to Jack Casper, Brigade director.

The board met Friday evening, but the question of whether to proceed with plans to raise $15 million for an addition to the Brigade, could not be resolved because of the absence of several members, he said.

Casper attributed the absence to inclement weather and illness and said the missing members would be contacted before Tuesday.

The Community Chest board of directors sent its approval to the Brigade earlier this month for construction of a two-and-a-half-story addition, expected to be located on a site now occupied by a vacated service station adjacent to the Brigade building.

The Community Chest, which studied the building program of its member agency, gave its nod for the Brigade to initiate a fund drive to raise the $15 million.

Casper earlier said he hoped construction of the addition could get under way this summer, following a spring fund drive.

The last expansion project of the Brigade was in 1961 when a third floor was added but increased enrollment during the past 12 years has necessitated an addition.

An original, 1928-vintage section is expected to be torn down along with the service station to make room for the addition.

The Brigade has remodeled twice since occupying the building in 1928. In 1956 it constructed its present facility, located behind the original.

Brigade membership is currently about 320 persons over the capacity of the present facility. Projections based on the present 1,070 enrollment forecast it will reach 1,360 by 1973 and 1,750 by 1978.

There are 176 criminal and civil cases scheduled to be heard before Judge Crane this term.

Also scheduled are 167 cases for jury trial. Among them are 50 transfers, 13 appeals and 19 Social Services Building.

Rep. William A. Steiger (R-Oshkosh) will be the principal speaker at the 2:30 p.m. dedication program, sharing the podium with Secy. Wilbur Schmidt, head of the State Health and Social Services Department.

The new 3-story, $600,000 building has been occupied by the department's 62-member staff since mid-November.

Neenah Pair Divorced

Judge Mueller granted all-mony and approved a property settlement.

Garage Hit by Menasha Fire

MENASHA — The south wall of a two-car garage at 842 Marquette St., was badly damaged by fire at 3 a.m. today, according to firemen.

The blaze was attributed to an overheated coal stove in the garage which ignited the wall.

Two cars in the garage were removed by firemen and were not damaged.

Firemen were at the garage, owned by Herbert F. Kurkowski, for an hour and a half.

Trial Set for Appleton Man Charged With Resisting Arrest

Richard Teitzlaff, 20, 1631 N. Richmond St., Friday changed his plea to guilty on a disorderly conduct charge but asked for trial on a charge of resisting arrest.

The man was taken into custody early the morning of Dec. 26 at The Rendezvous Bar, 208 N. Richmond St., where he allegedly fought with police who attempted to remove him from the tavern after the legal closing time.

Outagamie County Judge Nick F. Schaefer set trial for April 30, at which time he also will pronounce sentence on the disorderly count.

White Employers Facing Mistrust, Chamber Learns

STEVENS POINT—Faced with a labor shortage, the white employers throughout the country are changing their minds about hiring Negroes but now have to overcome the obstacles of mistrust, and lack of communication and understanding.

This point was repeatedly stressed by a number of speakers at a sensitivity seminar Friday at the Wisconsin Chamber of Commerce Executives' (WCCE) meeting here.

Pointing out the problems of assimilating the hard-core unemployed and disadvantaged workers in their cities were John Duncan, executive vice president, Metropolitan Milwaukee Association of Commerce; Wesley L. Scott, executive director, Milwaukee Urban League, and Bernard Benn, director, Human Development Division, Milwaukee Association of Commerce.

with the individual," Benn said of the Milwaukee area's sensitivity program.

Changed Mind

Duncan, speaking on the National Alliance of Businesses, a private program designed to get hard-core unemployed into the labor force, said white employers discriminated for years and didn't care about hiring the unskilled. NAB has now changed his mind by reimbursing the employer for training the employee, he said.

Duncan explained the program to assimilate unemployed workers into the labor market by creating a greater understanding in supervisory personnel had undergone revisions since 1967.

In the first year about 50 persons took part at $100 each and the purpose was not accomplished, he said. Undaunted the sensitivity course was revised from a 24 hour to 10 hour program and 1,000 persons took advantage at a cost of $18 each. This eventually led to the full and part-time employment of 5,000 persons.

Eight Injured in 6-Vehicle Crash

At least eight persons were injured, several of them believed seriously, in a chain reaction accident involving a snow plow, a pickup truck and four cars on State 55, a quarter mile north of U. S. 41, late this morning.

Names of the accident victims and the nature of their injuries were not immediately available. The accident occurred during blizzard like conditions.

Outagamie County and state police said that a county grader-snow plow was southbound on State 55 when it was rammed from behind by a car. A second car struck the first vehicle and the pickup truck and too more cars then were involved in the accident. All of the vehicles were south bound.

The injured were taken to the Kaukauna hospital by three ambulances.

Police Question Teen-Agers Involved in Drinking Spree

Four youths, two of them 15 years old and the other two 14 and 16, were involved in a drinking spree Friday night, according to Appleton police.

Three of the youths were questioned at the police station.

The first youth, a 14-year-old, was taken from a teen dance to the police station about 10:25 p.m. when it was noticed he had been drinking.

While he was being questioned, a 15-year-old boy was brought to the police station from the same dance. Police said the boy, who also had been drinking, seemed to regard the matter as "a joke."

After questioning the two youths, police telephoned a westside home and had a father bring his 16-year-old son to the station for questioning.

Detectives said the boys had obtained a 36-bottle case of beer which they drank as they drove around in the car driven by the 16-year-old.

Three of the youths, reportedly also stole a six-pack of beer from the Stop-N-Go Store, 1358 W. Prospect Ave., late Friday night, after drinking the case of beer. A store clerk furnished police with a description of the youths, who reportedly fled when she saw them take the beer.

Appleton Man Put on Probation For Bad Checks

Clifford J. Rondou, 45, 920 N. Morrison St., Friday afternoon was placed on one year's probation to the State Department of Health and Social Services after being found guilty of issuing two worthless checks.

Outagamie County Judge Nick F. Schaefer first sentenced Rondou to six months in jail on each count, but then stayed sentence and imposed probation.

As a condition of probation, Rondou must make restitution for the $10 and $15 checks cashed last June and July at K-mart and for 20 other checks totaling $222 that he cashed at Appleton and Black Creek business places between May and August. He was not formally charged with the other 20 checks.

Union Backs Suit Against State School Aid Systems

account differing conditions of school facilities and quality of education throughout the state, the suit charges.

Targets of Suit

Targets of the lawsuit, entered in Dane County Circuit Court, are the state, William C. Kahl, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, and Harold C. Clemens, state treasurer.

The men administer the formulas and make the payments that continue the unequal educational opportunities, the parents of the children protest.

All of the parents are connected with the auto workers union.

Attorney for the plaintiffs in the case is Jay Schwartz of Racine, an unsuccessful candidate for the Democratic nomination for attorney general last fall, and considered to be a future Democratic contender for the post.

Quality Differences

The suit contends that the state formula "fails to correct marked differences in the quality of public school buildings, equipment and other facilities which exist among the public school districts of the state of Wisconsin, which, indeed, are a product of the state's program."

The Tarr task force suggested that interest on school construction costs be included in the future in calculating aid payments.

The state, according to the suit, fails to take into consideration in any way differences in school construction costs, teachers' salaries, administrative expenses and other variations in operating expenses.

It also maintains that the state fails to relate aid to the variety of educational needs of districts and that it does not recognize acuteness of such needs, attempt to provide a balanced response to those needs or to equalize educational opportunities between districts.

Disadvantaged Areas

Another failing of the system, they charge, is that it does not consider the additional problems of disadvantaged urban areas "where children in the system lack the pre-school background and extra curricular educational experiences enjoyed by most of the children attending the public schools in various districts of the state."

Union officials contend that the suit is the first substantial challenge of its type to the school aid system in Wisconsin.

The children named as plaintiffs range from kindergarten to 12th grade in the Kenosha public schools.

1969 Car Reported Stolen From Appleton Auto Sales Company

Appleton police were told Friday that a new car was stolen from R & R Dodge, Inc., 1610 W. Wisconsin Ave., sometime this week.

The 1969 Dodge Charger two-door has a "deep chocolate" colored bottom and a tan vinyl top with a tan interior, police were told. There is a ski rack on the trunk. There were no license plates and no wheel covers on the stolen auto.

Real Estate Broker Dies Unexpectedly

W. J. Konrad, Jr., 88, Was Active in Many Civic, Church Groups

William J. Konrad Jr., a well-known Appleton real estate broker, died unexpectedly Friday.

Services for the 88-year-old owner of the Konrad Insurance Agency will be at 11 a.m.

W. J. Konrad, Jr.

Monday at St. Joseph Catholic Church.

Friends may call at the Brettschneider-Tretin Funeral Home after 3 p.m. Sunday until the time of service.

Konrad, a native of Appleton established his business in 1923. Before that he worked for the Appleton Chair Company and the Citizens National Bank.

In 1922 he was elected secretary of the National Farm Loan Association and served in that position for 14 years until the offices were moved to Waupaca.

He was one of the organizers of the Peoples Loan and Finance Company and served as president for many years. He had been a director and vice president of the Outagamie County Historical Society, a member of the Elks Club, the Catholic Order of Foresters and a fourth degree Knight of Columbus.

Konrad belonged to the Holy Name Society of St. Joseph's Church, where he was an usher for 40 years, and was a charter member of Butte Des Morts Country Club. He was active in the Philatelic Society and Outagamie Pioneers.

Surviving him are two daughters, Mrs. Richard Garvey and Mrs. Robert Lally, both of Appleton, and nine grandchildren.

Burial will be in the St. Joseph Cemetery.

handling of black and white students involved in the disturbance. Scott also said several suspended students were not involved in the disturbance.

Scott believes the university should be a viable part of a community instead of a reflection of community attitudes such as in Oshkosh.

Benn feels it is time to abolish the idea of a four-year period for graduation, as very few students get through school in four years, he explained.

Scott said, "The black students feel the white system has failed them entirely and can't do anything for them, therefore they feel they need a separate school."

The Urban League leader said he felt this was a step backward. Scott said the majority of educators are insensitive to the problems of the black student.

Scott added that "75 per cent of all people who are classed as poverty persons are white, and until we see this disadvantaged and uneducated situation as an American problem, we'll get hung up on this 'black versus white' thing."

Benn replied to a question on hostility in black schools as being a situation similar to that any child might cause.

"Children take advantage as much as the parents or adult allow them," he answered. "It is natural for the students to test out the teacher to see what they can get away with."

Scott, Benn and Lovett each said the teacher, adult and parent has to be tough and not show timidity.

Three Sons to Share Estate Of $186,640

Three sons will share in the entire estate left by Walter K. Miller Sr., Appleton industrialist and civic figure who died June 29, 1967, at the age of 79.

Gross value of the estate was $234,424, however clear market value, after deductions was $186,640, according to a final judgement on the will, entered in Outagamie County Probate Court this week.

Included in the estate was real estate valued at $27,750 and personal property, valued at $206,674. Sons named in the will were James F. Miller, 1408 S. Outagamie St., Appleton; Walter K. Miller Jr., 131 Poplar Court, Neenah; and Charles E. Miller, Hales Corners.

Miller was an officer in several Appleton industrial firms, including Appleton Wood Products Co. and Advance Car Mover, Inc. and was active in banking, civic, and church affairs in the city.

member of the study committee and formerly chief of the Menominee Tribal Council, raised the point at the committee session this week.

"For years we have been trying to get industries to locate in our community to provide employment and strengthen the tax base," he noted.

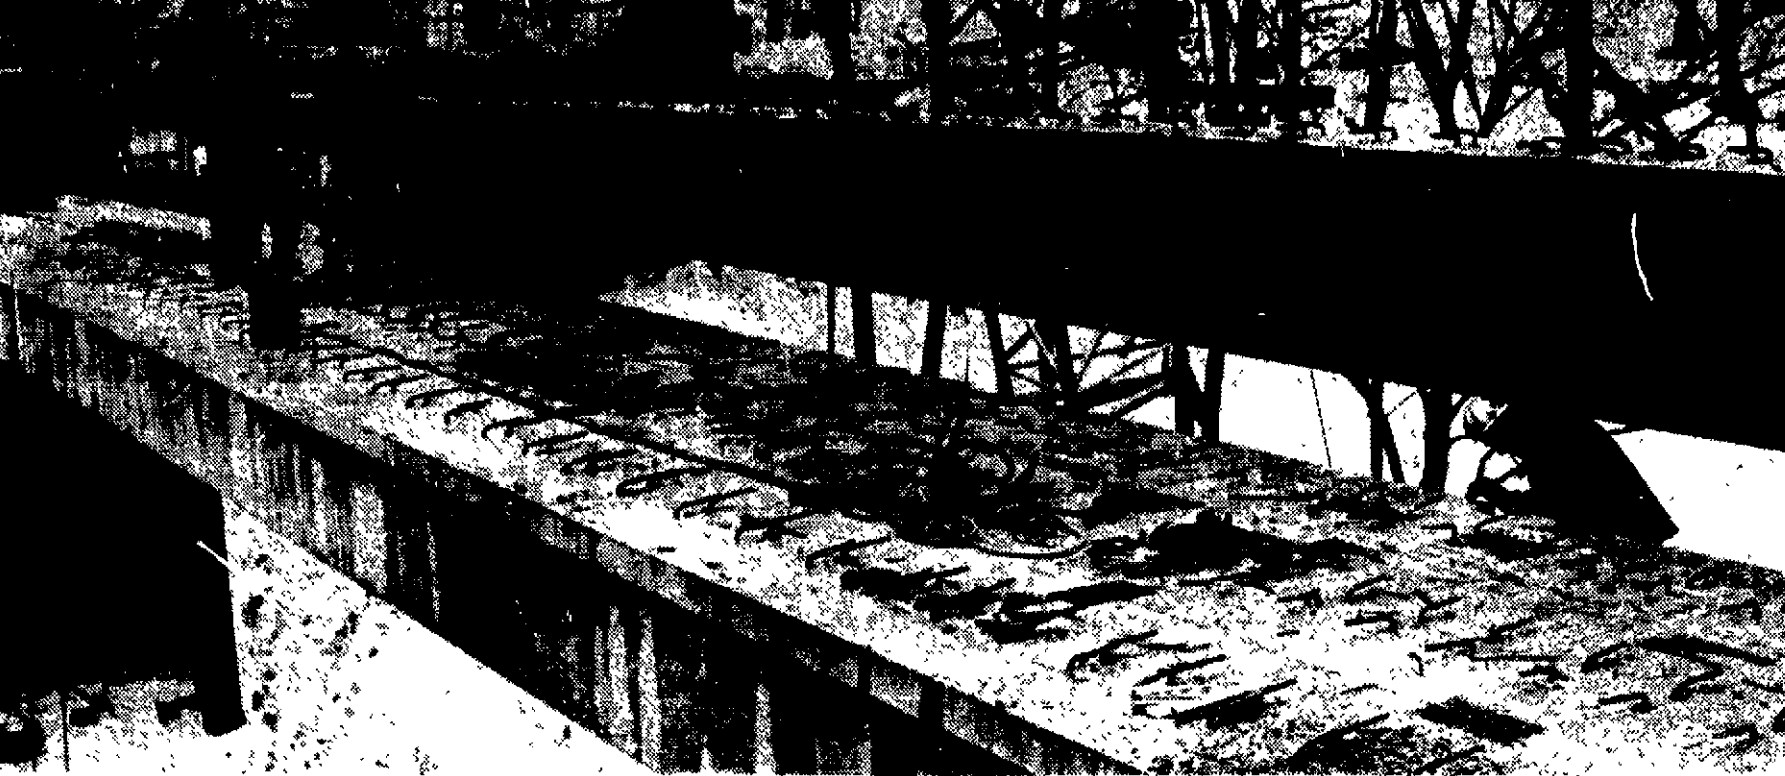

Question of Future

"But we are not likely to get such industrial development until we know positively what our future is," he said with a reference to the present uncertainty of the survival of the county.

Harder says he agrees. A prudent business manager is not likely to consider a plant location without assurances of the stability of local government organization in the future, and more important, the probabilities of the tax liability of his business property and inventories, without regard to the quality and cost of public services to his employees, he points out.

LaFave said that his committee's final report will probably go to the Legislature within two months. The final meeting of his group—although it is likely to be continued by legislative action—will be held in February. The committee is now awaiting several special reports, including one that will attempt to sketch future school programs in Menominee county.

Four Pre-Stressed Concrete Beams, 100 feet in length and four feet in width, were installed this week to support an enclosed bridge which will span a ravine and connect the First Congregational United Church of Christ to the church's educational wing.

Seminar Focuses on OSU

Student Revolt Properly Handled?

BY ROGER PITT
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

STEVENS POINT — Was the black student revolt at Wisconsin State University-Oshkosh handled properly?

A sensitivity seminar presided over by two Negro leaders and the executive vice president of the Metropolitan Milwaukee Association of Commerce touched on the matter at the Mid-Winter gathering of the Wisconsin Chamber of Commerce Executives here Friday.

It was pointed out that a similar situation at an Illinois university was handled differently and with much more rewarding results.

James Lovett, manager, Human Relations Department, Illinois, told of a little-publicized black student uprising at an Illinois school.

The students soon had second thoughts about what they had done (destroyed a good deal of property) and set about making reparations, both financial and with student labor, Lovett said.

No charges were brought against the students and many remain in school and are doing quite well, Lovett concluded.

These outbursts result from inadequate preparation for school and from disillusionment, Lovett, a former probation officer and teacher, said.

He clearly favored Illinois' manner in handling a situation which Lovett called more serious than Oshkosh. Damages were paid for, and the students gained more — both by not increasing their disillusionment, and by being able to continue with their education.

Bernard Benn, director, Human Development Division, Milwaukee Association of Commerce, said inferior ghetto schools are not preparing the Negro to face work. Ninety per cent of the black freshmen entering the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee drop out before the end of the year, he added.

M. R. Lackore, Wisconsin Dells, commented, "after listening to this seminar, I get the impression there hasn't been much change for the black community, and yet I feel there has been a lot of change when black students go to schools such as Oshkosh."

Wesley L. Scott, executive director, Milwaukee Urban League, said he felt not everyone is treated the same at Oshkosh University, referring to

Young Suspect Will Face Trial In Gibson Co. Safe Cracking

An Appleton detective testified Friday afternoon that Darrell D. Allen Jr., 21, 521½ E. Lincoln St., admitted burglarizing Gibson Co., Inc., last Wednesday, but denied taking a truck from the auto agency where he once worked.

Outagamie County Judge Nick F. Schaefer, after hearing an hour of testimony by four witnesses at a preliminary examination, bound Allen over for trial on the burglary count.

Schaefer set Tuesday afternoon for the entering of a plea. The district attorney's office indicated that county authorities also intended to file charges against Allen by Tuesday.

Allen, who was taken into custody near his home early Wednesday, is being held in the county jail under $2,000 bond.

Detective Testifies

Detective Melvin Brux of the Appleton Police Department said Allen at first denied burglarizing the auto agency at 131 S. Superior St., but later, when confronted with evidence, admitted he entered the building and broke into a safe.

Brux quoted Allen as stating he committed the burglary alone. Allen told authorities he walked from the garage and denied taking an auto parts delivery truck which had been parked inside and which was considered snot in the garage parts room, where a torch was used in an attempt to get into the safe, the detective explained.

On cross-examination by Allen's court-appointed attorney, Brux said checks and other contents from the Gibson Co. safe were found inside the abandoned truck, which still had the motor running and the headlights on when it was found.

"Out for Walk"

Patrolman Gerald Breen said he took Allen into custody about 6:20 a.m. Wednesday after seeing him walking in the 1100 block of S. Lawe Street. Breen quoted Allen as saying at the time that he was "out for a walk . . . to sober up."

Detective Sgt. Robert Breckenridge testified that bootprints found on a snow-covered ledge near where entry was gained into the Gibson Co. matched the boots Allen was wearing when he was taken into custody. Breckenridge said there was an unusual pattern on the heel of the boots.

He also testified that Allen's face was blackened with what appeared to be soot. There was considerable soot in the garage parts room, where a torch was used in an attempt to get into the safe, the detective explained.

Safe Smashed Open

Brux had testified that, after attempting to open the safe with the torch, the burglar rolled the safe from the parts room to the service area where he smashed it open with a sledge hammer and a pry bar.

He said entry into the garage was gained by smashing a second level window. A patrolman discovered the burglary at 5:20 a.m. Wednesday after finding an overhead door open.

John F. Bergstrom, 835 River Lane, Neenah, general manager of the Appleton auto agency, said that Allen had been employed by the Gibson Co. He said that $1,200 in cash and $1,400 in checks were taken from the safe.

Most of the loot was recovered in a snowbank near Allen's home and in the truck.

Legislative Review

County Status Likely For Menominee Area

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — When the 1961 Legislature set up the former Menominee Indian reservation in north central Wisconsin as the state's 72nd county, it reserved the right to reconsider the decision eight years later.

Today it appears likely that the 1969 Legislature, which has recently begun its deliberations, will decide that separate county status for the inhabitants of the former federal reservation ought to be continued.

The county structure is held to be the best assurance that the community of less than 3,000 persons can maintain its identity and economic welfare.

The Legislature will receive a report with recommendations from a special committee called the Menominee Indian Study Committee, which is headed by Sen. Reuben LaFave of Oconto, and contains leaders of the Indian community, principal state department administrators, and other legislators.

Deliberation

The committee has not yet made a decision, but its recent deliberations suggest strongly that it will urge permanent county status for the Menominee community, in reference to attachment to a contiguous county such as Oconto, Shawano or Langlade.

The most significant development pointing in that connection came in the report during the week of Harry Harder, an official of the state department of revenue and a fiscal expert. The report said the tax base of the county will grow during the next five to six years fast enough to permit independent county and town government organization and a tax rate that will almost surely be lower than that for the state as a whole at that time.

Harder recalled that the Menominee local government had a difficult start in 1961, but that there has been progress with the support of some emergency state and federal aid legislation.

Low Tax Rate

But he also noted that he assumes the cut-off of federal financing in 1971, and that a comparatively low tax rate will be possible for the local government of the Menominees, nevertheless, in the succeeding years.

The discussions of the LaFave committee this week indicated that the maintenance of separate county status is not only a matter of community pride, but that it will have a direct result in the encouragement of commercial and industrial development in the forested community.

James Frechette, long-time leader in the community, a member of the study committee and formerly chief of the Menominee Tribal Council, raised the point at the committee session this week.

"For years we have been trying to get industries to locate in our community to provide employment and strengthen the tax base," he noted.

Question of Future

"But we are not likely to get such industrial development until we know positively what our future is," he said with a reference to the present uncertainty of the survival of the county.
